FIERCE STORMS OVER EUROPE SEAMEN'S FAREWELL TO "OLD ENGLAND"

LOST ON ICELAND COAST: GENJA REACHES PORT

London, Jan. 27.

A large part of Europe and the whole of North America are still in the grip of exceptionally severe winter weather, to which heavy snow falls, fierce, icy gales and floods are contributory features.

Snow again fell heavily in many districts of Britain last night and the wind velocity in some places reached 80 miles per hour.

Immense snow drifts have isolated many farmsteads in Lincolnshire.

The most unpleasant feature of this season is the storms along the coast. High winds and snow flurries which left mariners blinded in a tumble of water, sent most of the coastal craft hurrying for shelter.

But many trawlers have been driven ashore and their crews only rescued in the nick of time.

TRAGIC DISCOVERY

There have been tragedies, too. The wreckage of the Grimsby trawler, Jerla, whose crew sent a message of farewell by radio to "Old England" during Wednesday's gale, has been found on a gaunt stretch of the Iceland coast. The wreckage told its own pitiful tale.

The same coast nearly claimed another victim, the trawler Night Hawk, which has been found drifting helplessly, her bridge and funnel swept away and her mate gone overboard.

LIMPS INTO PORT

The Latvian steamer Genja, which was swept out to sea when attempting to enter Blyth harbour on January 26 (Saturday) with two Blyth pilots aboard, after having been missing for thirty hours, struggled into Hull to-day.

The storms extended as far south as Spain. The whole of France was swept by snowstorms and the tempests last night did serious damage to the fishing ports.

PARIS "SNOWED UNDER"

Paris, Rouen and Lille are deep in snow. The capital's entire "snow defence" force of 4,500 men, which was called out to clear away the fall of the past several hours which has almost completely tied up traffic throughout the city.

Rome and Naples have also had snowfalls.—Reuter Special.

WORLD COURT RECRUIT?

U.S. CONGRESS TO VOTE ON MEASURE

(Special to "Telegraph")

(The Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, January 28, 9.05 a.m.)

Washington, Jan. 27.

A vote in Congress is expected on Tuesday on the Administration's measure providing the machinery for the entry of the United States into the World Court at the Hague.

In spite of considerable opposition, it is expected that the Democrat leaders of Senate and House will have sufficient support to obtain the necessary two-thirds majority on the division.—United Press.

A little book which should be of considerable use to traders and ship-owners trading with China has just been prepared by Mr. Ip Kwai-wa, former chief clerk in the Hongkong Sworn Messengers' Office. MEXICO WOOLING SOVIET

RECOGNITION POSSIBLE

COMMON OBJECTS

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, January 27, 9.10 a.m.)

Mexico City, Jan. 27.

Pointing out the common anti-clerical policies of Mexico and Russia, observers here are speculating as to whether Mexico is not preparing to resume friendly diplomatic relations with Russia and, as a first step towards this end, recognising the Red Republics.

Attention has been drawn to the articles appearing recently in a Government newspaper, El Nacional, in connection with the anniversary of the death of the hero of the Soviet, M. Lenin.

These articles are believed to be part of an official inspired effort to sound public opinion on the recognition of the Soviet.—United Press.

Soong Staying In China

POSSIBLE TALKS ON SILVER PROBLEM

Shanghai, Jan. 26.

Interviewed by the Chinese Press here to-day, Mr. T. V. Soong, former Finance Minister, stated that he has no intention of leaving China.

He said that the Ministry of Finance had considered sending someone to the United States to discuss the silver problem, but he was unable to say what decision had been reached.

Mr. Soong said that he had no comment whatever to make on the local financial situation.—United Press.

The Hongkong Telegraph has received a sum of $5 from Mr. L. E. N. Ryan for the Hongkong Benevolent Society, in memory of the late Mr. J. D. Lloyd.

In the terrible storms which are sweeping Britain, several heroic rescues by coastguards are reported. Picture shows the recent launching of a lifeboat on the English coast by means of a modified tank.

U.S. Financial Outlook

Washington, Jan. 22.

The following is the forecast of events in the American economic sphere:

Holding company legislation will be enacted, probably against all businesses including utilities, and possibly some investment trusts.

Federal incorporation for interstate business will make progress but will not be enacted.

A $4,800,000,000 Public Works bill will be enacted with President Roosevelt having full discretion. Old age pensions and unemployment revision.

A new R.F.C. Bill will pass within the week, which includes a more liberal policy on direct loans for industry and broad powers for railroad loans possibly allowing the purchase of depreciated railroad bonds by the railroads in order to save interest.

Unified Government regulation of all commerce—commissions is likely. Electrical equipment, plumbing and air conditioning companies will benefit by R.F.C. loans.

The Supreme Court decision on the Gold Clause Case will probably come on February 4.

It is believed that the Economic Security Bill, which was written, would increase the Federal debt by fifty per cent., will be revised. Important changes in the banking laws are likely. A compulsory consolidation of the railroads is forecast.

The Communications Commission's report suggests the regulation of telephone companies. No final action on telephone companies is contemplated until after a comprehensive valuation study.

A Bill will be introduced with President Roosevelt's support extending the Bankhead Cotton Control Act for another year. The present N.I.R.A. is likely to be extended.—Swan, Culbertson and Fritz.

ABANDON HOPE FOR MISSING

SEARCH ALONG WILD COAST

TERRIBLE WEATHER

New York, Jan. 27.

The search for the ten missing persons from the Ward Line steamer Mohawk, which sank following a collision with the s.s. Tallisman off the New Jersey coast on Thursday night has been abandoned. They have been given up as dead.

The loss of lives in this disaster is now officially stated to have reached the total of 45, including the ten missing. Altogether 117 persons were rescued.

It is known that the master of the vessel, and five others of his crew, went down with the ship.

Coastguardmen and others engaged in the search for the ten persons of the Mohawk still unaccounted for, abandoned their quest because it was recognised that no one could have survived the bitter cold on the New Jersey coast prevailing since the Mohawk sank.

Even if some of the missing had reached shore through the surf, which is most unlikely, they must have perished long before now unless succour had been at hand.—Reuter.

REVOLT IN LOUISIANA

SQUARE DEALERS ORGANISE

RISE AGAINST SENATOR LONG

Baton Rouge, Jan. 27.

Additional troops have been moved into this city where the situation has grown extremely tense following the uprising against the "autocratic" administration of Senator H. (Kingfish) Long.

All State buildings are heavily guarded and patrols are constantly parading the streets. The leader of the "insurrectionists," who is called the President of the Square Dealers' Association, is reported to have disappeared.—Reuter.

The Square Dealers armed themselves with shotguns and gathered Saturday evening, threatening violence unless Senator Long, and his political henchmen, would agree to their demands for reform. It was later announced that they had dispersed when they were promised a hearing. Since then martial law has been declared.

Controlling Utilities

RECOMMENDATIONS TO U.S. SENATE

LEGISLATION SOUGHT

Washington, Jan. 26.

The Federal Trade Commission, culminating a six year investigation of gas and electric utility companies, has prepared a programme to correct the alleged evils of operation of such firms, which will be paid before the Senate.

The programme, which has been formulated to curtail the powers of holding companies, consists of the following recommendations:

Firstly, heavy Federal taxation of holding companies and all the profits thereof.

Secondly, direct statutory prohibition of alleged utility operation by holding companies.

Fourthly, the enactment of a Federal-Permittee-Incorporation Act.—United Press.

MR. JAY GOULD PASSES

ONE-TIME ROYAL TENNIS CHAMPION

New York, Jan. 27.

Mr. Jay Gould, millionaire sportsman, son of the famous financier of the same name, died to-day.

Mr. Gould was best known for his game at Royal or court tennis, not so popular now as it was some years ago when the late King Edward VII was a keen player. Mr. Gould was world champion in 1907-08, losing his title to Mr. E. H. Miles in England, who, an earlier champion, had defeated Sir Edward Grey for the title in 1898.

FIGHTING FOR SILVER

U.S. GROUP PRESSES FOR PURCHASES

FULL REMONETISATION ULTIMATE GOAL

Washington, Jan. 27.

A committee from the Silver Group in Congress, presided over by Representative John A. Martin of Colorado, and including Representatives J. W. Robinson of Utah, J. P. Monaghan of Montana, Greever of Wyoming, Dempsey of New Mexico, Mrs. Greenway of Arizona, C. I. White of Idaho, Walter Pierce of Oregon and James Scrugham of Nevada, has been scheduled to meet this week.

The purpose of the committee is to decide upon the programme to be presented to Congress, embracing what they consider to be the best means of expediting the Treasury's Silver Purchasing Programme.

Representative Abe Murdock of Utah, Chairman of an informal organisation of Western Congressmen, interviewed by the United Press to-day, said: "We feel that the present law, if properly administered, would go a long way towards helping the silver situation; but silver must be completely remonetised before the desired results can be obtained."

Mr. Murdock also said the situation would be helped if the Treasury made real efforts to acquire a silver reserve within a reasonable time.

He added: "All the silver men in the House agree, that under no conditions should they allow the issue to remain silent, but should do all that is possible to obtain hearings that will keep the issue alive."

"If legislation cannot be executed this session, we may at least try to force Mr. Morgenthau, Secretary of the Treasury, to acquire a silver reserve as early as possible."—United Press.

AMERICAN INVESTOR STILL SHY

MONEY IN BANKS: NOT STOCK

"GOLD CLAUSE" DOUBTS

New York, Jan. 26.

Although the uncertain outcome of the "gold clause" case is the chief reason for the present lethargy on the Stock Market, it was pointed out here to-day that taxes, monetary problems and other impending legislation are additional sources of worry for investors.

During 1934 the deposits in all commercial banks was approximately $40,000,000,000, which was a $7,000,000,000 increase on the previous year's deposits, and which compares very evenly with the period 1926-1930, wherein deposits reached $47,000,000,000 from $40,500,000,000, despite which however, Stock values failed to keep pace.

On September 1, 1929, the total Stocks listed had a market valuation of $89,658,270,864.

At the end of 1934 the total valuation was $33,933,882,614.

The tremendous bank deposits during 1934, however, failed to stimulate a demand for investment securities, a fact due purely to hesitancy on the part of businessmen to speculate or invest in stocks.—United Press.

INFLATION NOT EXPECTED

New York, Jan. 26.

The decline of stocks most directly influenced by inflationary ferment on Wall Street, is interpreted as reflecting the prevailing doubts in the Stock Market that Congress intends to make any move toward inflation in the immediate future.—United Press.

NANKING WARNING TO NANKOW

Nanking, Jan. 27.

With reference to the Hankow Chamber of Commerce's petition to the Government for relief in the situation created by the recent depreciation of Shanghai banknotes, the Ministry of Finance to-day sent a message to the Hupeh provincial authorities.

The message stated that the fluctuations in currency values were entirely due to commercial factors, and warns the authorities against the unauthorised issuance of banknote in Hankow.—United Press.

IMPROVING CHINA'S INCOME

MORE MONEY FROM SALT FIELD

Nanking, Jan. 28.

It is officially announced that as a result of the improvement of the Chinese gabelle system, revenue derived from this source last year showed a great increase.

For instance, salt revenue in the Changlo Division alone was increased by well over $3,000,000.

The Chinese Gabelle Administration is taking steps toward improving the salt fields and by this means hopes to further increase production.—Central News.

Greta Garbo In A Comedy
Picture

"PAINTED VEIL"

"The Painted Veil," which has appeared in London, reveals a new Greta Garbo.

The Garbo of "Grand Hotel" and "As You Desire Me," and "Queen Christina," the slow-spoken, heavy-lidded siren, is gone. In her place is a laughing, high-spirited, very human young woman with a very slight accent and a knack of putting over dialogue (writes the film correspondent of the Daily Telegraph).

The first half of the film is mainly comedy. Whereas Somerset Maugham's book starts with a dramatic scene where the guilty couple stare terrified at the slowly turning door-handle, the film sets out to show the heroine's background—how she came to marry a doctor she does not love and how she fell in love with the attractive, shallow colonial official.

The bedroom scene, obviously first-rate material for drama, has been eliminated entirely, no doubt as a concession to America's new standard of purity.

Nor do the changes end here. The central situation—that of the doctor who drags his wife to a plague-stricken area to punish her for her unfaithfulness—remains, but otherwise the story has been pulled about to make possible a conventionally happy ending.

It is worth the money to see the Olympian Garbo as a Cinderella hooking up her sister's dresses, tossing the conversational ball to and fro with George Brent, growing enthusiastic at the enchanting sights, and sounds of China; and she shows in the dramatic passages that she has still the power to suggest passion with a fine economy of voice and gesture.

Herbert Marshall plays the husband remarkably well, particularly in the scene where he tells his wife of his discovery and her fate; George Brent is the lover.

Richard Boleslavski's direction is notable for a lovely Chinese festival and the urgency and power of the panic scenes in the cholera stricken city.

THE FILMS OF 1935

"Chief characteristics of talking picture entertainment in 1935 will be good music, clean comedy, and drama of modern life, all built on strong, simple stories of present-day times," says Winfield Sheehan, the Fox vice-president in charge of production.

"The campaign to eliminate certain questionable elements from motion pictures will result in 1935 in a marked improvement in the quality of screen-plays through the efforts of producers to maintain a high moral tone and increasingly fine quality dialogue in their pictures.

"I believe new attendance records will be obtained during 1935 as a result of improvement in quality and moral character of moving picture entertainment."

BRITISH ACTOR OPPOSITE MAE WEST

Paul Cavanagh, the British actor, is to play the leading role in Mae West's next Paramount picture, "Now I'm a Lady."

Cavanagh was born in 1895 at Chislehurst, Kent. Leaving Emmanuel College, Cambridge, he went to Canada, where he served in the North-West Mounted Police and later joined the Canadian Dragoons and served in the War. After the Armistice he returned to Canada and practised as a barrister, but soon turned his attention to the stage. Since then he has appeared in a large number of films.

LENTIL SOUP

THIS soup can be made without stock, though the contents of a stock-pot always helps both in flavour and nutriment. Ingredients: 1/2 lb. red lentils, one quart cold water or stock, 1 onion, one carrot, 1 oz. dripping. Wash the lentils well. Prepare the vegetables and cut them into small pieces, melt the fat in a saucepan, add the carrot, onion and lentils, and fry them lightly; put in the water or stock, boil it up, skim, and let it simmer for an hour. When the lentils are soft, rub the soup through a sieve, using a wooden spoon, rinse out the pan and put the soup back, boil up, season to taste, and serve.

CONTROL OF ARTISTS
NO FOREIGN ENGAGEMENTS

Berlin, Dec. 26.

It has become known that Dr. Goebbels, as head of the Reich Chamber of Culture, some months ago forbade German artists of all kinds and German lecturers to accept engagements abroad without the express authorisation of the president of their own sub-chamber (of music, painting and sculpture, the stage, literature, and the like).

To disobey this order entailed expulsion from membership of a chamber, and ineligibility to work in Germany; the reason for it was said to be the lack of co-ordination between the foreign journeys of various German artists or companies and the necessity of ensuring that only persons who would leave behind them "a really deep impression of our intellectual activities" should go abroad.

The order was recently—at about the time of Dr. Furtwangler's resignation—ordered to be reprinted in the professional journals, but not in the daily Press. It may explain the difficulties facing such men as Dr. Furtwangler, if they do not wish to become exiles.

on a petition brought by a theatrical company on December 20. A director of the company was quoted as saying that Professor Reinhardt agreed to produce "Die Fledermaus" in London.

STRANGE WILLS

LAWYER'S GIFT TO LUNATICS

CANTANKEROUS HUSBAND

During the preparation of a recent film it was desired to introduce into the story a will of rather irregular form, and researches were conducted for actual precedents to avoid a charge of improbability.

The files of a number of California attorneys yielded many examples of crude and eccentric wills which the law admitted to probate. The case of the dying sailor who bequeathed "These are for Daisy," as he held out his watch and a few coins, was cited, as well as the instance of the millionaire who left nothing but the family Bible to his heir. It was later discovered that the Bible contained a number of marked passages which, when put together, explained where his tremendous fortune was hidden.

A Frenchman ordered that a recipe for a new dish be pasted on his tomb every day, and a compatriot of his, a lawyer, left £10,000 to a local lunatic asylum, declaring that it was simply an act of restitution to the clients who were insane enough to employ his services.

A carefully-worded statement providing for the disposition of his property was found, some 20 years ago, on the fly-leaf of a German novel belonging to a suicide. Although unwitnessed, it was declared valid.

RHYMING TESTAMENT

In 1847, the following rhyme composed by one William Hicking-ton served as his last testament:—
This is my last will,
I insist on it still;
And e'en laugh your fill.
I, William Hicking-ton,
Poet of Pocklington,
Do give and bequeath
To thee, Mary Jarum,
The Queen of my Harum,
My cash and my cattle,
With every chattel,
To have and to hold,
Come heat or come cold,
Sans hindrance or strife,
Though thou art not my wife.
As witness my hand,
The 12th day of July,
In the year Seventy.

In 1902 a cantankerous husband left his wife penniless unless she married again within five years—the reason for this proviso being that he wanted some one else to learn how difficult it was to live with her.

On April 17, 1725, in London, a man left twenty shillings a year to any one who would "go about the parish church during the sermon to keep people awake and dogs out."

In Canada, a woman left twelve shares of stock to her husband and four to her dog, Frolie. A Scotsman, solving the problem of favouritism, gave each of his four daughters her weight in banknotes.

TO PROMOTE VIRTUE

Wills which aim to promote virtue and discourage vice are common. A bachelor who died a few years ago on his New York estate provided that none of his nephews should inherit unless he could prove that he had led a life of most angelic virtue. The conditions specifically mentioned were:—That they should not smoke or drink; that they should never enter a bar-room; and that they should not marry before the age of 30. All but one of the nephews were disinherited. The fortunate heir was four years old.

A cynic who died friendless left all his money to the man who could prove that he was a Christian, and then set forth a definition of Christianity that would exclude every one living.

EUROPE'S
QUEER
CORNERSREPUBLIC OF RUTHENIABEAUTIFUL

FROM A CORRESPONDENT

Europe has some queer corners, such as cannot be seen from the windows of a Wagon Lit nor through the windscreen of a speeding motor-car. Some of the queerest are those pockets in the great mountain ranges, where the tide of half forgotten invasions either never penetrated, or, if it did, receded, leaving behind communities of primitive people, like pools on a rocky beach. They are unfettered by the tourist and unharassed by the charabanc. To them a visitor is an object of curiosity not unmixed with fear, and of unfailing kindness and courtesy.

Such was my own experience in Ruthenia. I arrived at a real railway station, in a real town of large buildings and cobbled streets.

The dress of the Maharajah of Bhutan is somewhat unorthodox, having a tinge of the European. His wife prefers European shoes.

was met by a young man in a sky-blue uniform and full of phrases in stilted English. He explained to me that the Presidential motor-car was otherwise engaged, though it would be put later at my disposal. Meanwhile, he had provided for my luggage a fine bullock-cart, drawn by two enormous white beasts, and capable of carrying the household furniture of Louis XIV. My small and shabby suitcase was put into it with a ceremony suitable for crown jewels.

Ruthenia is a self-governing province of Czechoslovakia. It actually asked to join that State because in the turbulent seas of post-war Europe some flag had to be flown by any ship which did not wish to be pirated. But it claims to be the first permanent home in Europe of the Russian race and to speak the Russian tongue in its oldest and purest form. It is therefore proudly, if not fiercely, national, and has its full complement of Ministers and administrators, who are properly cautious in governing its wild highlanders, but exercise a temperate and tolerant authority over the milder people of the valleys. The Government is tolerant indeed. I found, a few miles from Ushorod, the capital, a permanent gypsy settlement, equipped with a school where Romany is taught. I also found a castle where the chateleine was a countrywoman of my own, who had exchanged the hills of Argyllshire for the Carpathians 50 years before, and had not spoken to one from her own country for 30 years.

Related honours are being showered by France on its foremost woman spy of the World War—Martha Richer Compton, shown here addressing an American Legion meeting in Paris. Sacrificing herself as the mistress of a German spy chief, she won his secrets and foiled many of his plans, receiving the Legion of Honour 15 years after the war.

PLACE OF BEAUTY

The day after my arrival the motor-car duly appeared, together with a guide who put my French to shame. But it needed no guide to explain the beauty of the country. We traversed it from end to end, through a succession of hamlets, where the houses clustered on the banks of mountain torrents round pagoda-like churches roofed with wooden slates weathered to a silver grey. In the remoter villages high up in the mountains, which are reached by roads where the car seemed to leap from boulder to boulder, the houses are stockaded round with tall slabs of wood to keep out wolves and bears in the winter. The land is full of colour. The houses are painted with a wash of pale blue, and round the doors and windows are stencillings of brilliant greens, blues, and reds. Over the walls the pepper plant riots in profusion. The people not only have a national dress but also wear it. It is a full-sleeved white blouse, like the top half of a Bishop's surplice, decorated with exquisite embroidery in geometric designs, exactly like the border of a Persian rug. These strips of embroidery are peculiar to the country—they are not exported—and so are the great double bags of woven cloth which every person wears slung over the left shoulder, generally with a baby in the rear pouch, and some domestic animal or produce in the front pouch. The people are shy but lively. I pointed my camera at a woman washing clothes in a mountain stream, with her baby lying beside her. In a flash she leaped up, seized her child, and bolted into her house. The schoolmaster who was showing me round the village followed and soothed her, and in a few minutes she has changed into her best Sunday dress, a little sheepskin jacket all glorious with colour, and a new apron of woven scarlet and green threads. But she would not bring out the baby.

The end of our journey was a visit to my guide's relations in a village on the Rumanian frontier. There is only one living room in the Ruthenian house, and if the family is large some members of it have to sleep on the dining benches. If there is a guest, who does not know that he or she is expected to go to bed first and in public, the evening is apt to be prolonged, and my liveliest recollection of that night is wondering for hours whether it would be possible to faint in order to be taken to bed without embarrassment. Finally I took my courage and my pyjamas in both hands, and the hint was taken as a matter of course. I hope that I behaved properly and left the Ruthenian opinion of Scotland unimpaired. In any case, let me assure my kind hosts that the Scottish opinion of Ruthenia is that she is as lovely and her people as fine as any to be found north of the Tweed.

TREASURESSALE OF FAMOUS MANUSCRIPTS
HALF GREAT
LIBRARY

The first part of the well-known library formed by the late Mr. Ogden Goelet is to be sold shortly at the American Art Association's Galleries, New York, by order of his son, Mr. Robert Goelet.

Mr. Ogden Goelet, who was born in New York in 1846, died on board his yacht, the Mayflower, in 1897. The Mayflower was later sold to the United States Government and subsequently became the Presidential yacht.

Like many other New York families, the Goelets are of Huguenot descent, and have been established in New York for over 200 years.

Mr. Goelet was one of the great collectors of his time. Most of the important libraries formed by his contemporaries have long since been dispersed or found permanent homes in public institutions, and

Mr. Goelet's intent these many years, now stands as one of the last of the great American libraries of the nineteenth century available to the collector to-day.

The Goelet library was started in a small way in 1866, and continued for 25 years. Its outstanding features are the Americana; the Cruikshank, Dickens, and Thackeray collections of original drawings, books, and autographs; and the first editions of English and American authors of the last century.

Much of the Americana, the assembling of which was begun in 1876, was purchased at the public sales of the libraries of Almon W. Griswold, William Menzies, George Brinley, Dr. Edmund B. O'Callaghan, the Hon. H. C. Murphy, Samuel L. M. Barlow, and others.

The Cruikshank collection was begun as early as 1872, and a few years later an attempt was made to obtain all the prints described in Reid's catalogue, the measure of success of which ambitious project can be seen in the wonderful array of that artist's work represented in the library. The Dickens and Thackeray collections, which include many original drawings and autograph letters, were begun about the same time, the former being considerably enhanced in 1890 by the addition of a series of original water-colour drawings by Hablot K. Browne ("Phiz") illustrating most of Dickens's important novels, purchased at the sale of the library of Frederick W. Cosens.

The first editions of English and American authors were collected between 1886 and 1890.

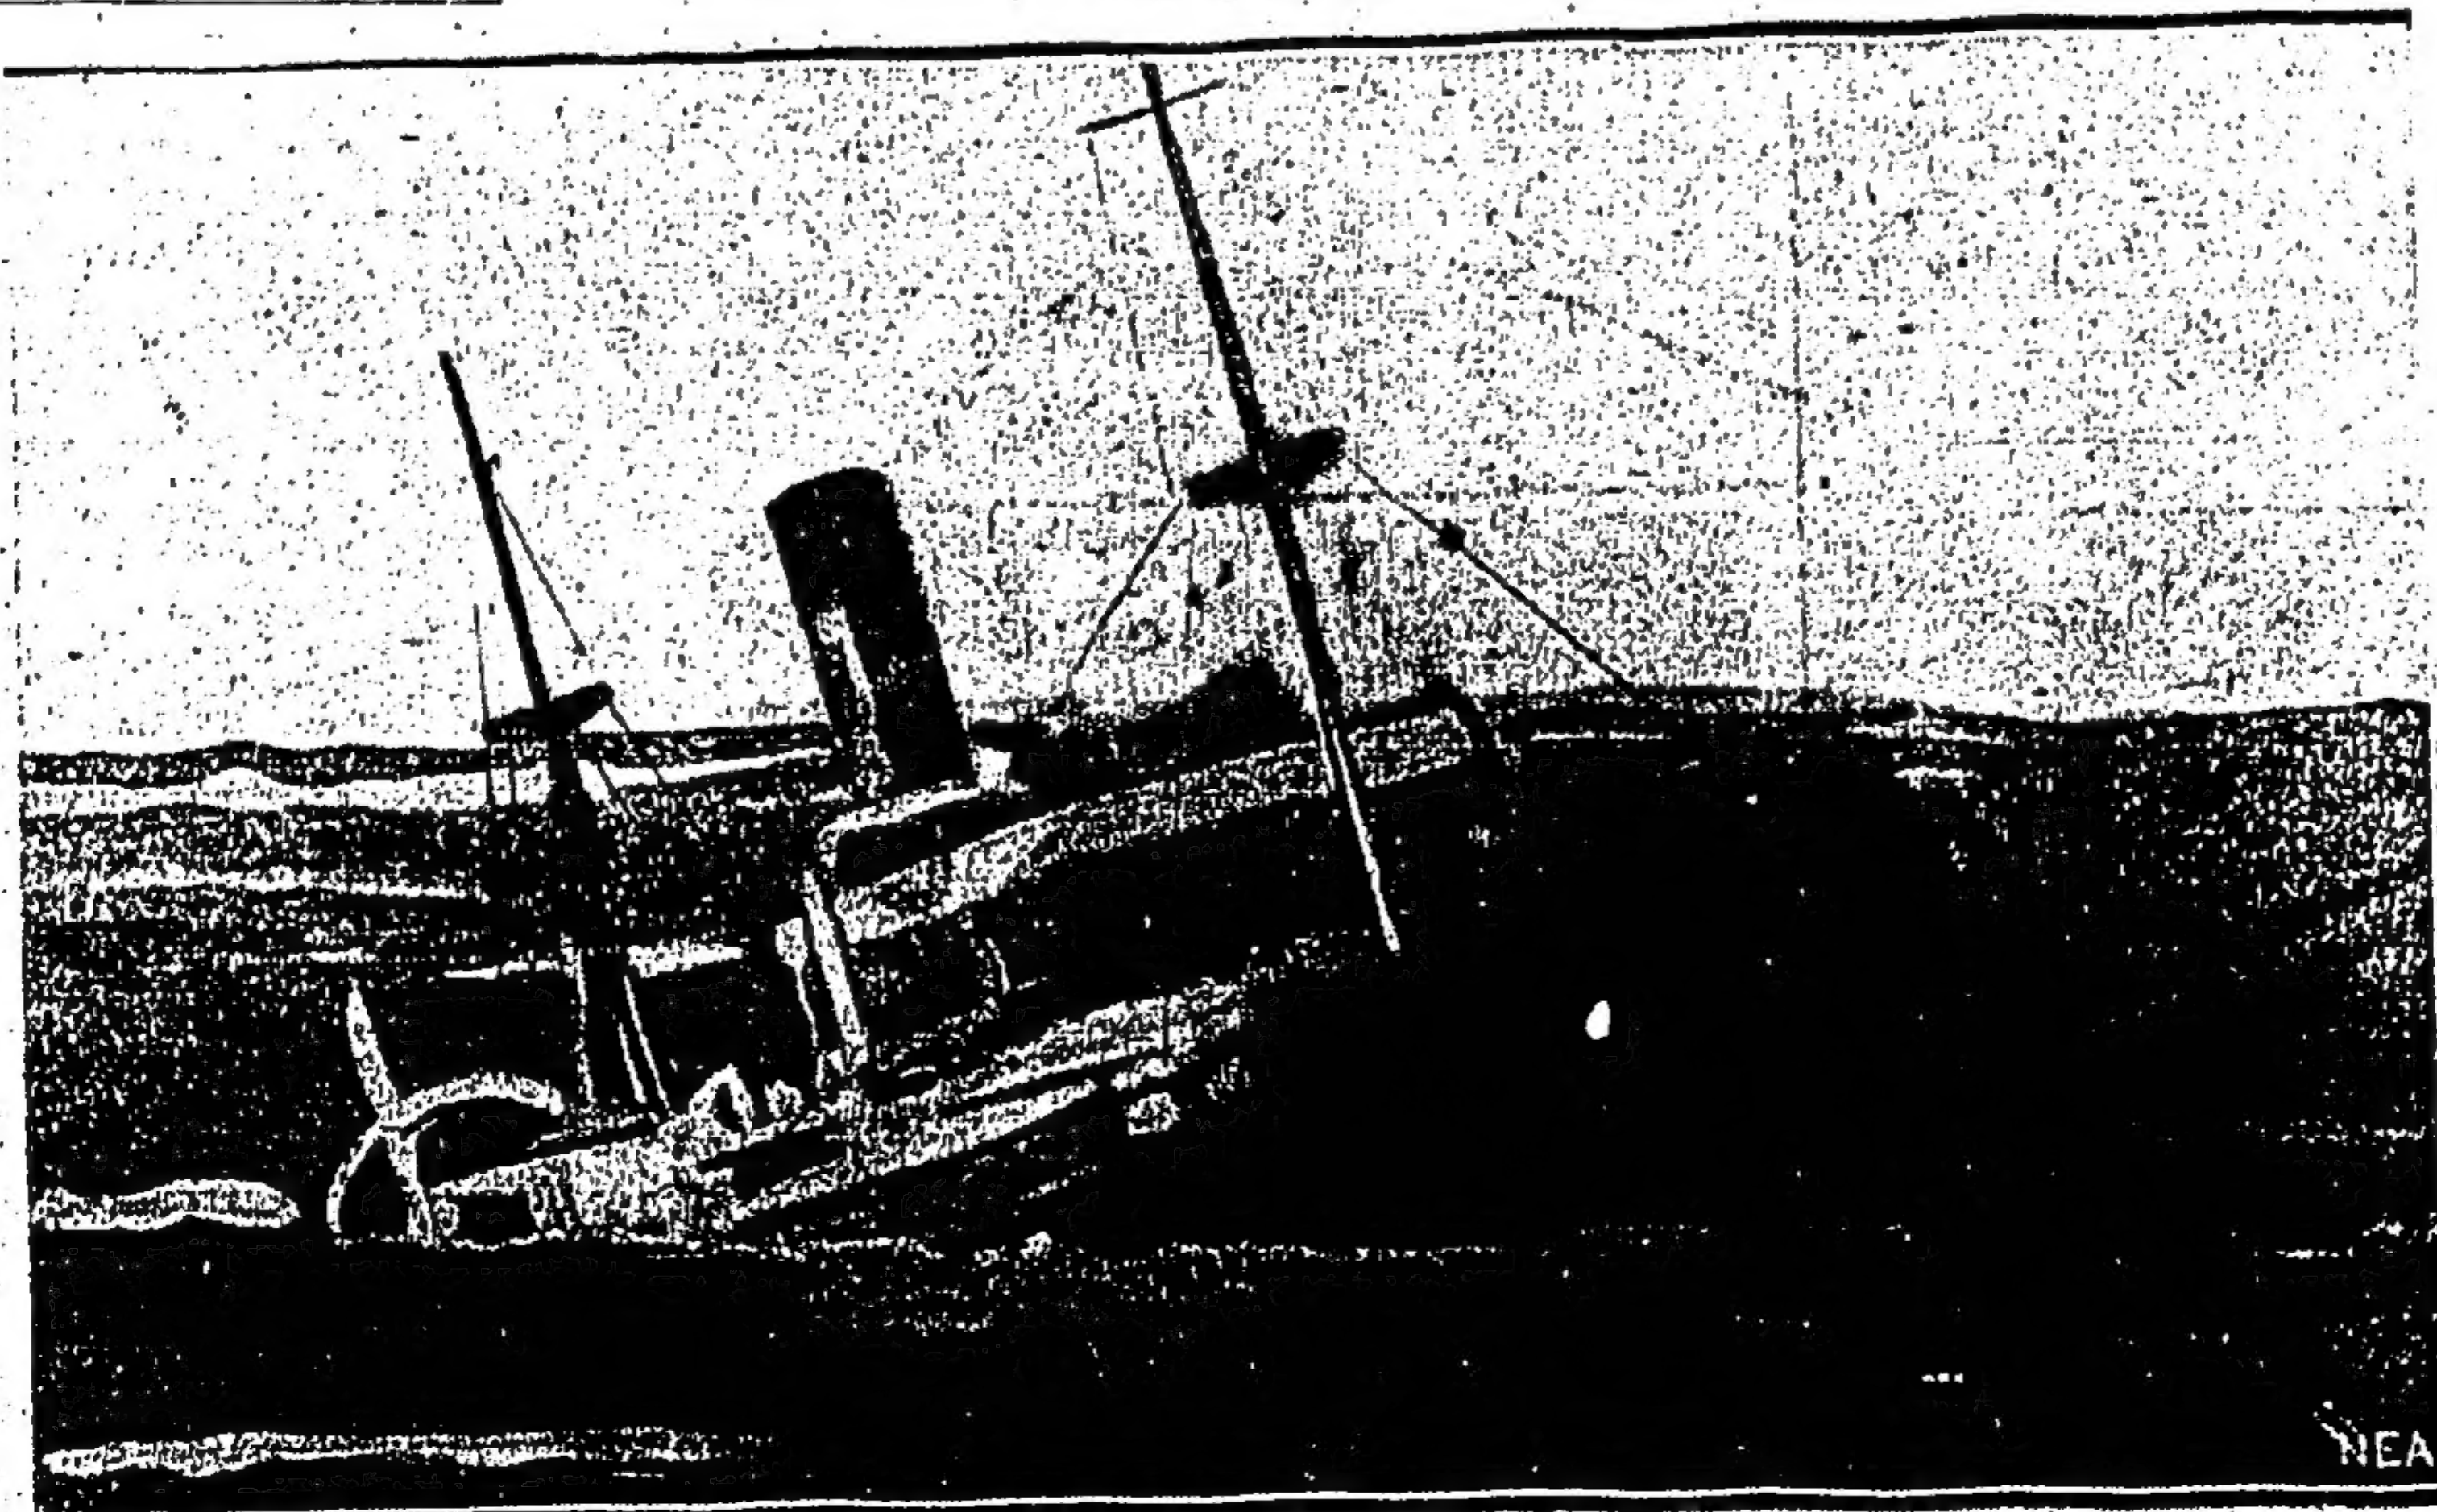

The selection to be sold in January, catalogued in 400 lots, comprises about half the library and the remaining portion will be sold later in the season.

An outstanding item of the Americana is the original manuscript of General Benedict Arnold's "Expedition to Quebec in 1775," describing an American army's heroic and tragic struggle through the wilderness, a document left by General Arnold at West Point when he fled to the British; there is, too, the Murphy set of the Jesuit Relations, comprising 42 original editions of the annual reports sent by the missionaries in New France to the Head Provincial of the Jesuit Society in France from 1632 to 1672; and the manuscript diary of Baron Cromat-du-Bourg, aide-de-camp of Count Rochambeau, written during active participation under the latter's command in the campaign which culminated in the siege and surrender of York Town, illustrated with 12 maps and plans and a water-colour view of New port.

The funeral for Sergei Kirov, assassinated member of the high council of the Soviet party and one of Joseph Stalin's chief lieutenants, was the most impressive since the revolution. Here are pictured high Soviet officials in Red Square, Moscow, marching behind Kirov's casket. Stalin in the centre with V. M. Molotov and K. E. Voroshilov close beside him.

Here's a graphic view of the latest tragedy in the North Atlantic Ocean—the sinking of the British freighter Usworth in a wild storm, 800 miles off Ireland. Nine members of the freighter's crew were saved. Fifteen from the Usworth and two men from a rescuing vessel were drowned when a lifeboat capsized. Photo taken aboard the rescuing ship Ascania, was brought to Halifax, transported by airplane to New York, and transmitted to San Francisco by radiophone.

SMILING IN THE RAIN
with FISHER NO DRAFT VENTILATION

Even when rain pelts against the windows of your car, you'll be dry and comfortable inside if your car has Fisher No Draft Ventilation.

You can open one of those smart Ventipanes just a little, and out goes the stuffy air, in comes the pure fresh air, without drafts or any splatter of raindrops. This helps to keep the inside of the windshield clear for front seat passengers, which certainly makes driving safer for all concerned. And it keeps the occupants in the back seats from being chilled by drafts, or getting all hot and squirming and restless.

In fact, it would be hard for anyone to get tired of riding in the smart, strong safe new Body by Fisher.

The seats are wider, deeper . . . the cushions more luxuriously restful . . . the whole interior noticeably more spacious. That's one of the first things which will impress you, when you see and examine the new CHEVROLET SIX.

BANKRUPTCY COURT

FIRMS DENY LIABILITY AS BRANCH CONCERNS

A petition brought by Arculli Bros. for a receiving order in bankruptcy against the Tung Tak Firm and its branches came before Mr. Justice A. D. A. Macgregor, Chief Justice, at the Supreme Court on Saturday.

Mr. F. X. D'Almada, snr., represented the petitioning creditors, and Mr. F. H. Looby, of Messrs. Russ & Company, appeared for the debtors.

Mr. Looby said he did not object to a receiving order against the Tung Tak Firm, but the alleged branches, the Tung Lok, Tung Fook, Tung Chan and Tung Wo, contested the petition on the ground that they were not branches of the Tung Tak.

Mr. A. C. Arculli gave evidence that he was trustee of Arculli Bros.

Mr. Looby: Is not that the same thing as a partnership in law?

Witness: I am not here to give an expression on the law.

Mr. Omar Arculli, manager of Arculli Bros., said the debtors owed them $3,000 odd. He had attended a meeting of creditors at Tung & Co. where it was stated that the Tung Tak could not meet their commitment and a committee of inspection was appointed to go into their books.

Cross-examined, witness said he knew of his own knowledge and from the company's books, that the four firms named with Tung Tak were branches of the Tung Tak.

His Lordship said that on the evidence adduced he could not make an order until the issue as to whether the firms were branches of the Tung Tak or not had been tried, and he therefore ordered petitioning creditors to submit such an issue for trial within fourteen days.

Order for Adjudication in Case of H. C. Best

The public examination of Henry C. Best, engineer, in connection with an application for adjudication, was next proceeded with.

Mr. Best, who was born in Hongkong, said he finished his apprenticeship in 1908, and after serving on a number of ships on the China Coast and in the Philippines, went to Amoy in 1925. There, with the assistance of borrowed capital, he started a cinema business. It enjoyed good returns during the first few months, but conditions brought about by the strike and boycott of that year intervened, and the cinema had to close down. Thereafter the building was occupied by Chinese soldiers.

Applicant then made a living by obtaining provisions for the British Navy and ratings ashore, until it was possible to restart the cinema business. But heavy expenditure had to be put in an account of repairs to the building, the doors and much of the roofing having been utilized for fuel by the soldiers whilst in occupation. Before long the business had to be closed down again because of heavy taxes and the unsettled political situation.

In 1932 applicant came to Hongkong and secured employment with Messrs. Dodwell's, but was compelled by retrenchment to leave after a year. He then started business in a small way on his own account, this being comprised as "Domestic Engineers." With this Company applicant was now employed on a salary of $300 a month.

Applicant in reply to the Official Receiver, said that he was no longer connected with the cinema business at Amoy.

His present assets were nil, except for his salary, which he said was hardly sufficient to meet living expenses for his family and the education of two children. Debts were mostly in China from a Captain Wood, but for the greater part these were for moneys applicant claimed to have been lent for the purposes of the cinema business and also for a lace business.

Shares, half of which were bonus shares, in Domestic Engineers, and belonging to applicant were mentioned as going towards a possible dividend of 15 per cent. returnable.

The Chief Justice remarked that the facts did not disclose "extravagance." He found that the sums borrowed by applicant for other than the purposes of his business were for more than strict necessities.

His Lordship made an order for adjudication.

Dividend Announced

A bankruptcy notification states that a first and final dividend of $2.28 per cent. has been declared in the case of Steger and Co. Importers and exporters, of 2 Connaught Road Central.

GERMANY ON HER FEET AGAIN

Hitler. The money saved on these days of national self-denial all goes to the Winter Help Movement.

Every fair-minded person who knows Germany in pre-Hitler days will agree that these achievements constitute a miracle of national recovery. It gives me special satisfaction to testify to this from the city where the Nazi movement was born, and where, two and a quarter years before Hitler came to power, I was the first outside the ranks of his own followers to make a public prophecy of his ultimate triumph.

Are we in Britain awake to what this recovery means, or is our judgment still fogged by distorted impressions derived from prejudice and propaganda?

As I have said before I now repeat, that nearly all the news regarding the Nazi regime published even in our most responsible journals is pure moonshine. These have spread, for instance, the impression that German Jews lead an almost hunted existence. Yet in German hotels and restaurants I have frequently seen merry and festive parties of German Jews who showed no symptoms of insecurity or suffering.

I was glad to read the statement made in a wireless broadcast by Sir Austen Chamberlain since I have been in Germany, to the effect that the Hitler regime is firmly rooted. Nothing could be more evident and certain, yet so slow are some of our public men to recognise plain facts that Sir Austen's frank and common-sense declaration deserves appreciation.

I regard Germany to-day as not only potentially but actually the strongest Power on the Continent of Europe, for what she may lack in material equipment—and this, I believe, amounts to very little indeed—is more than made up by the superb spirit of the nation and its supreme confidence in its Leader.

We have no ground of quarrel with these people. Their interests, our own, and those of the entire civilised world will be best served by close and friendly co-operation between us.

When once a few of the more glaring injustices imposed by the Peace Settlement have been removed, there will be no reason why Europe should not be entirely peaceful for years to come.

We and the Germans are blood-kindred, and, as Herr Hitler remarked, to make our nations have fought each other only once, though in many campaigns they have been faithful allies. The German Chancellor repeatedly expressed in our conversations his fervent desire for a complete Anglo-German understanding, which he regards as a sure road to peace.

If Germany and Britain, alienated for over 20 years, could thus come once more together, a new era of well-being would open before both of us.

There will never be a better opportunity than now, when all the forces and energies of that splendid nation are held in one strong grasp, could we but bring about this better feeling between the two countries in 1935, the coming year would be one of the most fortunate in the memory of mankind.

ARMED ROBBERY

FISHING-JUNK STOLEN NEAR THE BORDER

A report was made to the Police yesterday afternoon by Wong Yung, master of the fishing junk, No. 2790, that whilst his boat lay off shore at Nam O, just over the border, with two foks on board on Wednesday, three men, armed with revolvers, boarded the junk and ordered the foks ashore. They then sailed off in the boat in the direction of Sai Kung, in the New Territories. The boat, complete with gear is stated to be worth $295.

BULLION LOST

AIR LINER LOSES CARGO OF GOLD

London, Jan. 27.
Bars of gold, valued at $6,000, fell from a Hillman Airways air-liner yesterday while the machine was on a flight from Paris to England.

It is thought that the valuable cargo must have fallen into the English Channel near the coast of Kent or Sussex.
When the air-liner landed in Essex it was discovered that the luggage compartment had been ripped open by the gale, in which the plane received a severe buffeting.
Other articles placed in the compartment, before the machine left Paris are also missing.—Reuter.

DICTATORSHIPS

The prison sentences recently imposed on M. Zinovieff and M. Kamenev, for plotting against the Stalin regime, is further proof of the fact that dictators brook no rivals. These two men and those associated with them may or may not have merited punishment for treasonable activities, but, that point aside, it is clear that there is no room in Russia to-day for political thoughts which run contrary to the ideas of the Soviet leaders. Democratic sentiment has no more opportunity of expression than it had under the old Czarist regime. When we come to look at the three great dictatorships of the world to-day—Russian, Italian and German—we see that only that of Signor Mussolini seems to have passed beyond the phase when repeated "purgings" are deemed to be necessary to preserve the system. In the case of Russia, the recent "purge" is only one in a long succession of such events, and it will not be by any means the last. The Soviet system has travelled far since the days when Lenin and Trotsky were held to be the true-red exponents of the Communist creed. Lenin, had he lived, would indeed have been fortunate had he maintained his pre-eminence through all the vicissitudes and the emergence of rival personalities that have marked the intervening years. Being dead, he can be given a show-place mausoleum without harm to the cause. Zinovieff and his co-plotters have now been removed from the stage. In the evolution of Sovietism, some have gone this way and some that. It was too much to expect that all would develop along precisely the same lines. But the governing hand is still Stalin's, as the latest batch for banishment have been forcibly reminded. Which brings us back to the point that there is no room for more than one dictator in a country at a time. Those who would usurp the seat of supreme authority, and have not the support of the machine in seeking to realise their ambitions, must go to the wall. They may represent, in their views, a considerable body of political opinion; that is neither here nor there. They may even seek to spread their ideas through what, in truly democratic countries, would be regarded as constitutional measures; that does not matter, either. It is enough that they dare to differ from those who have seized the reins of dictatorship. Fortunate indeed are the peoples who enjoy the priceless possessions of liberty of thought and speech.

NOTES OF THE DAY

CANADA'S BENEFITS

It can hardly be believed that some believe that the Imperial Trade Agreements are satisfactory to no one. We know that there is such a thing as political exaggeration in language, but anyone connected with the business world, must admit that the benefits from Imperial Trade agreements are very real. It is true some of the agreements might be amended in some particulars. They have, however, added too substantially to Canada's trade to permit of their cancellation without an aroused public opinion, in the opinion of business men from Atlantic to Pacific. Where the Imperial Trade Agreements are concerned the proof of the pudding is in the eating. Canada, under their aegis, has made gains in fifteen agricultural products exported to the British market in one year's operation of the trade pacts. Here is the table:

Wheat	$53,302,814	$79,828,390
Fresh apples	4,289,514	10,041,420
Cats	5,082,421	8,522,742
Tobacco	2,600,000	8,880,094
Bees, shorn, midl.	171,700	1,226,559
Bees, hives	1,701,231	2,430,212
Bees, hives	18,284	248,781
Poultry	24,770	100,878

So far as the export of manufactured articles goes, Canada has also benefited. Where figures such as the foregoing are concerned there should be no question of partisan politics. They appeal to both agriculturists and industrial workers. They have, in effect, brought many millions of dollars of added income to the Dominion. Moreover, they have instilled anew in the economic field a policy of Imperial co-operation which is having very beneficial results.

MORALE AMONG WORKLESS

A patched coat is a symbol of self-respect. Some garments have empty pockets because of inexcusable holes in them, due to theft. According to the Christian Science Monitor, the American people, who have nineteen million persons on the relief rolls, are beginning to show some impatience with the attitude of some of their fellow-citizens who neglect, or defiantly refuse, to discharge such obligations to their communities as they are quite capable of discharging. In the opinion of this Boston newspaper, so well known for its broad and sympathetic treatment of social problems, the raising of relief funds, either through voluntary contributions or taxation does not depend entirely upon sympathetic sentiments towards the unemployed. Sympathy is indeed an important factor, but by no means the only one. Another factor is the belief, or faith, that public relief is helping the community and not simply harming the recipients; and accordingly a demand is being made, that individual merits, character, and self-respect shall in future play a larger part in solving the plight of the workless. The vast majority of the workless are deserving of every sympathy and consideration. The disturbing feature of the situation is that the shiftlessness of one fraction and the calculated insolence of another combine to undermine the system of public and private relief for the deserving.

SOCIALISTIC TEXT-BOOKS

The London Labour Party, which achieved very notable successes in the recent municipal elections in England, is appointing a committee to examine and report on all text-books used in the schools of London. Particular attention will be given to any "militaristic, patriotic or capitalist propaganda contained in such books," the idea being, where such is found, to substitute other books for them regarded as "more accurate and reliable." The L.C.C. schools hereafter are to be refused for the training of cadet corps and the taking of children to see military displays. In effect, there is to be a new educational policy in London, one which will train the children to vote for those who instilled their text-books. There is no stronger belief embodied in Socialism than that which regards the children as the metal most malleable for being hammered into the Socialistic likeness. It is believed that the hammering should be done through the medium of state schools and the more dry-as-dust a programme that can be devised for this purpose the better. No doubt it is well that children should learn economics, provided the text-books are standard ones and deal with what principles there are of a science which is purely experimental. All the economic teaching in the world, however, will not develop character, which should be one of the main aims and ends of education.

GERMANY ON HER FEET AGAIN

In the Daily Mail

Munich, Christmas Eve.
MIRACLES are done by faith. The Germans have found a new and potent faith.

It has wrought the miracle of removing the mountains of difficulty that barred their way to national recovery.

But it has accomplished even more. It has given Germany a new soul.

The last two years have witnessed here a political process as profound and far-reaching in its effects as the great French Revolution.

Such a change in the character of a nation, in its internal conditions, its international standing, even in the very bearing of its people, has never before in history been achieved within so short a time.

I warn my fellow-countrymen that Germany has set a new pace of human endeavour. She has acquired a national momentum without precedent in political dynamics.

Germany is the new Sparta. The same spirit of national discipline and self-sacrifice which earned for the few thousand inhabitants of a small Greek city-state an enduring place in history is being reproduced here by 67,000,000 of what are in some ways the most intelligent, industrious, high-spirited, and hardy people in the world.

None among them is more Spartan than the Head of the State himself. Herr Hitler neither drinks, smokes, nor eats meat. His daily fare is as simple as that of the humblest working-class family in Germany.

Encouraged by his example, the young Germans of to-day have improved themselves by 30 per cent. in physique and zest for work, above what was already their high national standard. When a whole generation has grown up under the Nazi system Germany will have become a nation of something like super-men.

By what force has this land been lifted from a despondent, discouraged, disregarded condition to its old place in the front rank of the Great Powers?

What magic has restored hope to German hearts, given to German eyes the flash of courage and self-confidence, and magnetised this mighty nation until one feels in its midst as if one were in a gigantic power-house?

"HITLER."

That is the whole answer. Without Hitler none of this would have happened. With Hitler no limits can be set to the developments in Germany that may yet surprise the world.

During the past week I have had several opportunities of talking and listening to this unique leader of his fellow-countrymen—not only in the formal atmosphere of the Chancellor's office but beside a glowing log-fire after luncheon as the short winter afternoon faded into darkness, or in the spacious but simple suite of public rooms at the Chancellery, decorated to his own quiet taste, where he entertained myself and some of his more intimate collaborators to an after-dinner concert of that German music which is his only relaxation.

There is something in Hitler's personality which photographs him instantaneously and indelibly upon the mind. His eyes have remarkable power of magnetism; his low-pitched voice is eloquent and persuasive.

But behind these external attributes of a man who has already made so profound a mark on the modern history of Europe, one feels, in talking with him, the force of his own conviction that he is fulfilling a predestined task—the task of setting Germany on her feet again.

Hitler's severest critic would scarcely deny that in this task he has already won a very great measure of success. The united, self-confident Germany of January 1933 can no more be compared with the distracted, unhappy Germany that he found on taking power in January 1933 than a soaring eagle can be likened to the broken egg-shell from which it came.

Anyone who visits Germany can see for himself the concrete results of the Hitler regime. I will mention below a few of the most outstanding. But his greatest feat cannot be expressed in words or set forth in statistics—it is the re-kindling of the soul of the German people.

After less than two years of his administration the following results stand to Herr Hitler's credit:—

1. German unemployment on the day he took office numbered 6,014,000. On November 30 this year they were 2,364,000.

2. National and municipal Budgets have been restored from ruin to solvency. The Finance Minister recently stated that revenue had increased by more than £80,000,000, while expenditure was down by over £100,000,000, showing an improvement in the national position amounting to £200,000,000 a year in all.

3. For the past two months Germany has had a favourable balance on her international trading. Despite exchange difficulties, her exports for the present year stand at 85 per cent. of the value of our own.

4. The Germans are fast making themselves independent of foreign raw materials. They can now produce artificial rubber at no more than twice the present low price of the natural commodity. Hundreds of research chemists are working at the development of artificial cotton and wool. They are hot-foot on a clue which may lead to the discovery of a completely satisfactory substitute for tin at one-tenth of its cost.

5. Two hundred and fifty thousand young men are in Voluntary Labour Camps, benefiting from the finest imaginable physical and social discipline. These are adding largely to the real estate values of Germany. In two years 350,000 acres of marsh and waste land have been reclaimed by their efforts.

6. One thousand four hundred miles of the finest motor-roads in the world are nearing completion, giving well-paid employment to 94,000 men directly and 110,000 indirectly; 4,000 miles of such roads are planned.

7. Such a spirit of national solidarity has been created that during the past two months an immense sum in cash has been collected to help the poor this winter, while gifts in kind to an equal value have been contributed. The Sunday Express in Berlin was a monthly "One Dish Day," on which I shared a single-course luncheon with Herr (Continued on Page 4).

The Very Idea!

ANOTHER WEAK END

By George

MONDAY again! We are so tired that we only put in the exclamation mark to fill up space. Monday is the day we have to tie up our weak end in an endeavour to keep sparking on all fours until Saturday.

The tying-up process usually lasts six days so it's really a case of making ends meet. Unfortunately there's a fresh beginning to each end so really there's no end at all—except to keep up.

In this frame of mind it is discouraging to read these constant challenges between our local fighting men. We see that following an account of the Prandy-Dee fight in which poor Dee got a thorough beating-up, somebody also wants to have a wallop at the victim—winner take all.

It's that last clause that saves us from many appearances in the ring. In response to the challenges of our late readers we always accept with this little saving stipulation. Further enquiries then reveal to the challenger that he would take all the glory and a pile of debts.

But returning to the week-end subject, which was also a wet end, reminds us of our car ride with the girl. She was quite willing to come for once in a while a sort of auto-suggestion on our part—but things were just the same between us. The only change we noticed was the gear work and that was syncro-mess.

We are thinking now of buying a yacht or something which has fewer dangerous curves than motor-ing and gives more opportunities for enjoying the scenery.

What Courts?

April 10th, 1932.

To a Gas Co.

Dear Sir:

I have just received another of your merry little form letters telling me that I owe you $4.08. Now, it might be a good idea for your folks in the Claim Department to have a little get-together with the good people of your Bookkeeping Department and find out whether some of your bills are paid.

I can understand how you feel about it—that paying bills is old-fashioned. But you never can tell! There just could be a person every now and then who, in a sentimental moment about the good old days, actually does write a cheque for a bill of yours.

You may well wonder why I have not answered your various notes of the last ten weeks. Well, I just love a lot of mail. It so cheers me to know people think of me.

I have a confession to make. Your last couple of letters sounded a bit impatient. They threatened to take drastic measures for my not paying the bill I paid ten weeks ago! The last letter gave me quite an inspiration; I decided to let you sue me and then to enter counter suit. Just play a sort of jolly game—first you sue me, then I sue you. I thought it would be such fun.

But alas! The delightful prospect of being sued and suing you was only too short-lived. My brother-in-law, a lawyer who always manages to take the joy of my bright ideas, said it couldn't be done. He said you wouldn't sue me for $4.08 (as if such an amount is to be sneezed at these days); that a Lady doesn't appear in the Municipal Court. Now there's nothing left for me to do but get hold of a book of etiquette to find out what courts a Lady may appear in.

Very truly yours,
Frances M. Anderson.

MAN'S DEATH PRESUMED DISAPPEARED IN 1931

On the petition of Wong Wai-tung, leave was granted by the Chief Justice, Mr. Justice A. D. A. MacGregor, at the Supreme Court this morning, to presume the death of Wong Cum-cheung as from May 16, 1931, and to distribute the estate involved accordingly.

Mr. H. G. Sheldon, instructed by Mr. W. Keith Robinson, of Messrs. T. O. and Hodgson, represented the petitioner and said the application arose from the disappearance of a beneficiary of an estate and the consequent hold-up of the distribution of the estate by the trustee executor, Wong Wai-tung.

Wong Cum-cheung had lived with the executor until May, 1931, when he ran away and all efforts to trace him had been unsuccessful during the ensuing 23 years.

His Lordship made an order empowering the trustee to presume the death.

LATEST MOTOR COLLISIONS

TWO EUROPEANS INVOLVED

Mr. D. B. Evans, of the Hongkong Observatory, was involved in a motor collision on the Tai Po Road last night, when his car collided with another private car, resulting in some damage being caused to the bumpers and rear wheels of both vehicles.

When a lorry suddenly stopped at the junction of Garden Road last night, Surg. L. Mooney, of H.M.S. Defender, who was following it in his car, was unable to pull up in time, with the result that a slight collision occurred, with very little damage caused to the car.

SATURDAY BRIDE

MISS J. CHURCHILL WEDS MR. MOUTRIE

A wedding of great local interest was solemnised at St. John's Cathedral on Saturday afternoon when Miss Joan Mabel Churchill became the wife of Mr. Geoffrey Clifford Moutrie.

The Very Rev. Dean Swann officiated at the ceremony. Appropriate music was rendered on the organ by Mr. Frederick Mason.

The bridegroom is the son of C. F. Moutrie of Whitstone, England, and is a member of the staff of the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank. His bride, who is well-known and popular among the younger set in Hongkong, is the daughter of the late Dr. J. Aylward Churchill and Mrs. Julian H. R. Hanco of Hongkong. She is Captain of the Hongkong Ladies' Hockey Club.

Bride in Silver Satin
Entering the Cathedral on the arm of Mr. J. H. R. Hanco, the bride looked lovely in a silver satin wedding gown made by Mme. D'Obry. She carried pink roses.

She was attended by the Misses Barbara and Heather Hanco who wore flame crepe gowns trimmed with gold braid and set off with little Juliet caps and mittens to match. These dresses were also made by Mme. D'Obry. They carried sheaves of gladioli.

Little Richard Henderson was page boy.
The bride's mother wore a rich brown wool silk, maroon gown. The duties of best man were undertaken by Mr. M. Turner.

Reception at St. John's Place
After the wedding ceremony, a reception was held at No. 1, St. John's Place for the newly wed couple's many and close friends, who toasted their future happiness.

Later, the bride and bridegroom left for their honeymoon, which is to be spent in Baguio, Philippine Islands. On leaving, Mrs. Moutrie wore a blue broad cloth dress in tunic style with grey hat, gloves and bag to match.

WANCHAI SMASH

TRAFFIC ISLAND DAMAGED A SECOND TIME

The traffic island for East bound trams in Hennessy Road, opposite Tin Lok Lane, which was recently demolished when a car driven by Colonel Bird crashed into it, suffered a similar fate on Saturday night, when private car No. 1203, driven by Mr. J. F. Lunney came into collision with it.

The lamp in the middle of the island, which had been re-erected after the last accident, was once again knocked down. Fortunately nobody was on the island at the time of the accident.

The smash occurred about 9.45 p.m. on Saturday. According to a report made by Mr. Lunney, he was following behind another car and consequently did not see the island until he was upon it, and it was then too late to avoid an accident. Fortunately, Mr. Lunney was not seriously injured. The car was rather badly damaged.

KOWLOON MOSQUE

MRS. H. L. DYER'S HANDSOME PRESENT TO MUSLIMS

A handsome present to Muslims in Kowloon by Mrs. H. L. Dyer, wife of Mr. J. M. Dyer, well-known in Hongkong and Shanghai for his work on behalf of the Muslim community, the new Mosque at Kowloon, was dedicated in the presence of a large gathering on Saturday afternoon.

The ceremony was performed by Maulvi Syed Hafeez Mohamed Noor Shah.

The new mosque, which is situated near Waterloo Road, is a most imposing building, built entirely of cement concrete and English steel, to a design by the architect, Mr. S. B. Ahmed. Its dome, surmounted by a crescent moon, and flanked by six minarets, is typical of buildings of such type in India. In front of the mosque is the monument built to the memory of Indian troops who fell in action during the Great War.

An Italian marble tablet at the entrance to the Mosque bears the inscription in English, "This Mosque is erected and presented to the Muslim Community by Mrs. Hallima Lam Dyer, January 26, 1935."

Addressing those present Mr. J. M. Dyer outlined the history of the Mosque. He said:

"I am so glad now to see the Mosque completed that I ask you to join with me in returning thanks to Allah who in His Beneficence has guided and made it possible for me to present, on behalf of my wife, this Mosque to the Community."

"It will at the same time interest you to know briefly the development of the cemetery nearby. The area was first allotted to the Military some 17 years ago, but from personal observations from time to time I saw that little use had been made of it, until 1933, when the management was handed over to our Trustees. Subsequently, a sub-committee, composed of Indian Military Officers, and several members of the local community, and of the local community, was formed, with Mr. Abbas Khan as chairman. This sub-committee, fired by the Spirit of Islam, did splendid pioneer work, making rapid progress, despite many difficulties."

"I myself felt sympathetic towards them and their cause, and did what little I could during my periodic visits to the Colony. Others also came forward to help. With generous contributions from the Police Force, Naval Yard, Police, Coast Guards, and Private Watchmen, nearly all of whom are members of the Indian Muslim Society, and last, but not least, from the Military, Mr. Abbas Khan was able to build the boundary wall. The Military then did excellent service by active work in levelling the site, flow well they have done it, you can see for yourself to-day, and it gave me a great deal of pleasure to supervise on many occasions companies of between 30 and 50 from the former regiments stationed here."

Chinese Muslims Help
"Our Chinese Brethren also contributed liberally. The Chinese Muslim Society donated $500 while Mrs. Kam Chung-wah, of Shanghai, followed it up with a like amount. Naturally these welcome donations brightened up our spirits very much, and we pushed on the work with greater vigour and hope."

"To-day we are able to offer you the amenities of a new Mosque. The cemetery is ready for use, but a great deal has yet to be done to improve the site, such as building retaining walls, filling gaps, and drainage. I feel sure, however, that the Trustees can depend on your co-operation in the future, just as you have helped in the past when called upon."

"I must now thank those connected with the work: Mr. Abbas Khan, who throughout has been in the forefront in all matters, his sub-committee for their untiring co-operation, Mr. Meer Waill for acting as foreman in charge of the coles, those who assisted financially and otherwise, and finally to all of you gentlemen, for attending to-day this opening ceremony, as it is very gratifying to see all sections so well represented here."

Chairman's Speech
Mr. Abbas Khan replied (in Hindustani) as follows:

"You have just heard the history of this site, and as chairman of the sub-committee in charge of it since 1933, I can tell you that the development has not been easy. Much of the quick progress has been due to Mr. Dyer, who not only has given us moral and financial support, but who has also taken a very active part by personal supervision practically every day during his stay in Hongkong in the construction of the boundary walls and the Mosque, and what you see to-day bears eloquent testimony to the splendid results of his efforts. As you all know by now the cost of the Mosque has been met by Mrs. Dyer to whom we owe a great deal of thanks."

"In time to come, this site will not be sufficient for our requirements, and I intend very soon to apply to the Government through the proper channels for an extension to the adjacent hill."

Mr. Abbas Khan also thanked the trustees and others for their support, especially mentioning Inspector Fazal Ahmed who had assisted him materially in his undertakings. Subsequently, Mr. Abbas Khan and Inspector Fazal Ahmed, the latter of the Naval Police, were also thanked for their kind co-operation.

He also thanked the following ladies: Mrs. Firdos Khan, Mrs. Kam Chung-wah, and his wife Mrs. Abbas Khan.

SCHOOL PRIZEDAY

CONFUCIAN CLASSICS IN EDUCATION

The importance of the study of the Confucian classics and traditional language was stressed by Mr. H. K. Woo, LL.B., who distributed the prizes on Saturday morning at the Government Vernacular Middle School.

Among those present were Mr. Y. P. Law and Mr. Wan Yui-sing, Inspectors of Chinese Schools, Mr. Fung Ping-tun, Mr. Fung Ping-wah, Mr. Chau Ping-woon, Mr. Chan Kwan-po, and Mr. Loh Hoo-long.

Addressing the students after the Headmaster, Mr. Li King-hong, LL.B., had read the report and the prizes had been distributed, Mr. Woo said in part:

Looking at the facts and figures mentioned in Mr. Li's report regarding enrolment, fees and attendances, during the year under review I think it must be agreed on all sides that this School has fully justified its existence. From personal experience through being for a number of years one of the examiners of this and other schools I know of no school where Chinese language and literature is more effectively taught.

Confucian Classics

I agree with Mr. Li in his remarks as to the desirability of Chinese boys having a good grounding in the Confucian classics. I always think that two of the books of the Confucian classics, namely, the Confucian Analects and the Book of Mencius, are to the Chinese people what the Bible is to Europeans. From this it follows that, just as the teaching of the Bible is backed up by the authority of Church and State, so the study of the Confucian Classics should be made compulsory in all Chinese schools. I am glad to learn that something in this direction has been done by the Nanking and the Kwangtung Governments. In my opinion the Confucian classics fulfil the threefold object of true education, namely, to make us good, useful and wise.

Recent utterances from acknowledged authorities on Chinese literature are underlining our respect for the Chinese traditional language, that is, the language used in the Chinese classics including the Confucian classics. These modern authorities advocate abolishing the traditional language and using the colloquial language to take its place. The reason they give for the suggestion is that the traditional language is dead, because it is too difficult for the average student. Let me at the outset point out that so far from being dead it is very much alive. It is used in the daily newspaper by authors of books, in ordinary correspondence by all classes of people, and on all occasions such as birthdays, wedding and funerals.

Not a Dead Language

To say that the Chinese traditional language is a dead language would be conveying the impression that there is a vast difference between it and the colloquial language which is of course far from being the case. Such a statement might lead one to suppose that the traditional language differs from the colloquial language as Anglo-Saxon differs from the present day English; whereas practically the same Chinese words are used in the colloquial as in the traditional language, and the traditional form is a perfect vehicle of conversation between educated people. As for the accusation that the traditional language is too difficult for the average student this is a statement that can hardly be taken seriously.

Now the colloquial language must have existed from time immemorial and it is to be supposed that our ancient writers would have chosen that form of language if they had found it suitable. And the fact that they did not do so would lead us to believe that the colloquial language did not appear to them to be satisfactory for their purpose.

For all these reasons, therefore, I strongly advise the boys of this school to have implicit faith in the traditional language as the sure foundation of their studies.

Annual Report

The following are extracts from the Headmaster's report: The school year under review began in November, 1933, and ended in July, 1934. Our maximum enrolment was 252 against 253 in 1933, and 251 in 1932. In spite of our school fees having been raised at the beginning of 1933, and the present economic depression reflected by the decrease in the number of pupils in many local schools, I am glad to point out that our numbers remained steady without substantial change. This may serve as an ample proof that there is the demand from the community for this vernacular form of education.

In July four Normal students sat for their final examination on account of two shortened con-

ALLEGED TRESPASS

WOMAN IN SERVANTS QUARTERS

A married woman, Yuen Sau-chun, aged 18, appeared in the dock of the Central Police Court on Saturday morning charged with trespassing in the servants' quarters St. Paul's Boys' College. The defendant stated she went there to see her husband who was an employee at the College. Mr. S. P. Wong, house master, stated he did not think she was the wife of the "boy." Strict orders had been given time and again that no strangers be allowed on the premises.

The Magistrate: If she is his wife she is not a stranger exactly. Defendant was remanded until this morning to enable further enquiries to be made.

secutive school years only one candidate passed, while in the previous examination we had 90% success. In the middle school Division and Higher Primary Division we had to stiffen our examination because of the shortened year, and their percentages of promotions were 76.19% and 62.68% respectively—a gratifying result as a whole. The number of promotions from the Higher Primary Division has been held back for the reason that we had to promote boys to Class Lower Middle 1 from two Higher Primary Second Year classes.

A word of thanks is due to the Pan-Hok-Tun gentlemen, who have shown unflinching support and encouragement to our pupils by increasing their scholarship money in proportion to the raised tuition fees; and to the Bank of East Asia, which has been good enough to give 6 per cent. interest to the donation of the late Mr. Fung Ping Shan's Scholarships.

The Middle School age of the pupil, it may be needless to point out, is the most important period of his character formation. With some good grounding in the Confucian classics a youth may at least realise some of the basic principles one should follow as a member of the family, of the community, and of mankind. The systematic doctrines of Confucius are based on conscience and virtue, and confined to man in relation to his fellow creatures. Some such background is plainly essential; and more especially at a time when our young men of China are being introduced to modern knowledge. Moreover, in efficiency in one's own native language must be a great handicap in life. It is our claim to meet the above needs of the Chinese youth.

BREATHE-IN-THE-CURE

How Respiroids Banish Coughs, Sore Throat and Colds. Most sore throats, coughs and colds could be avoided, or, at least, quickly checked at the start. One of the most effective ways is by the use of Respiroids. These lozenges act directly upon the respiratory system, and are therefore superior to liquid remedies which are immediately swallowed. As they dissolve slowly in the mouth aromatic curative vapours are given off which circulate through the throat, nasal passages and lungs.

Respiroids are convenient for the pocket, and a lozenge taken at intervals forms a pleasant, permanent safeguard. Obtainable at chemists, or post free, 75 cents per bottle, from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., 451 Klange Road, Shanghai.

POWERFUL INTERPORT FOOTBALL TEAM CHOSEN

NAVY COULD HAVE SAVED THE GAME

LOSES SENIOR SHIELD TIE

Wong's Form

(By L. S. B.)

During the first quarter of an hour at Caroline Hill on Saturday it seemed that South China "A" were going to have things all their own way, but later the Navy recovered and the rest of the match was a hard fought battle between two almost equal teams.

It was mainly due to missed opportunities that the Navy failed to draw level in the second half and were beaten by three goals to two. South China owed a lot to the forwards, and particularly Fung King-cheung, despite their disadvantage of having to accommodate themselves to a wet and heavy field.

No doubt the best individual Chinese player on view was Wong Mee-shun, who was always too good for West and Li Tin-sang, who countered the Navy attacks with supreme confidence.

Wong showed his ability early in the game and immediately after the start only just failed to get past Pepper, shortly afterwards he went over a good cross kick and Tam Kong-pak netted. Pepper during the very trying first few minutes for the Navy played well, but on the whole did not equal Wong Wing, whose handling of the wet ball was masterly.

Early in the second half Skinner received from Cannell and beat Wong with a fine shot, South China, again mainly owing to Wong Mee-shun, regained the lead, however, Tam Kong-pak doing the needful.

The Navy fought hard for the rest of the game and Cannell netted again by converting Skinner's shot which had already beaten Wong Wing.

J. SHUTE COMING

Shanghai Interport Team Has Practice Match

Shanghai, Jan. 26. Shanghai's soccer Interporters defeated a side composed of Police footballers together with the Interport reserves by five goals to three, in an unimpressive practice match to-day.

It is announced that J. Shute will be able to make the trip to Hongkong.

Rycroft and West were outstanding for the Navy. Skinner and Cannell were hard-working, but rather luckless attackers. The teams were:—

South China "A":—Wong Wing; Li Tin-sang, Lau Mau; Leung In-chun, Leung Wing-chai, Leo Kwok-wai; Tao Kwai-shing, Wong Mee-shun, Fung King-cheung, Tam Kong-pak, Leung In-chun.

Navy:—Pepper; Rycroft, West; Pyatt, McGuire, Love; Roberts, Cousins, Craig, Cannell, Skinner.

AROUND THE GROUNDS

CHINESE UPSET POPULAR IDEA

ASTONISHING ADAPTABILITY TO BAD GROUNDS IN SENIOR SHIELD MATCHES

INTERPORT CAUSES RE-ARRANGEMENTS

The Hon. Secretary of the Hongkong Football Association announces that owing to the visit of the Shanghai soccer team to the Colony, the fixtures arranged for February 2 and 3 have been postponed until 9 and 10. Grounds and time of kick off will be as stated in the fixture list for 2 and 3.

Matches for 2nd, to be played on 9th. Matches for 3rd, to be played on 10th.

THE Recoile seemed upset by being unable to include "A.V." in the attack, and were not so impressive as against South China. The bottling up of Bernie Gosano made a lot of difference to the attack, neither Gomes nor Alves giving of their best.

CHINESE Athletic have recorded no better deserved victory this season. The return of Tam Ah-fai seemed to make all the difference, and if the Athletic could only play the same combination regularly, they would figure as one of the Colony's best teams to-day.

AT Kowloon, the Police repeated their previous week's success over Kowloon, only this time more decisively and more worthily.

THERE was real snap in the attack, and a soundness in defence which defied all the hard efforts of Jones and Elliott. In addition to which the Police adopted the playing policy of keeping the ball freely in circulation.

KOWLOON was disjointed in defence, the halves failing to render adequate support. Morrison revelled in the fight and played a typical game, continually spilling the dangerous-looking Police attacks single handed.

THE sustained interest in the game shown by the spectators was a tribute to the performance of the players under miserable conditions.

SURPRISES were not absent from the few League matches played. St. Joseph's, minus the services of Elms fell down with a crash before the Fusiliers, who showed something of that which had gained them such an enviable reputation in Gibraltar. The Saints were completely outshone. Dennis led the soldiers' attack with skill, and the team all round revealed vast improvement on previous showings.

IN the second division, the Club upset prognostications by beating the Royal Artillery in a poor and spiritless game. The Artillery did everything but score, and the Club were equally as bad until Duncan was given a penalty. The result was all against the run of the play. Neither team deserved to win.

MacNider's Hole-In-One Record

FIRST TIME EVER AT K.G.C.

S. MacNider, the local golf and hockey player, performed the feat of holing in one for the first time in the history of the Kowloon Golf Club on Saturday afternoon.

Playing in a friendly match against A. J. Dennis on the Club green at Kowloon City, MacNider holed in one on the fourth, known as "The Rockies."

Using a No. 2 iron, he drove the ball the full distance of 155 yards from the tee on the third hole. In spite of this remarkable feat, MacNider lost the match!

Commencing golf in 1931, MacNider showed much promise and in 1932 won the Fear Cup, defeating the holder Dr. J. E. H. Cogan. In 1933, partnered by H. Hampton, he won the Kowloon Golf Club "Hong" Foursomes. This year he has qualified for the Captain's Cup competition.

INTERPORT TRIAL SATISFIES

ALBERT HOWE COMES INTO HIS OWN

A. V. GOSANO PROVES HIMSELF AN IDEAL RIGHT HALF

For the first time in several years a really satisfactory final Interport football trial was played yesterday, and this despite contrary elements, and the absence of several of the originally selected players. The selectors must have left gratified in having their task made so much easier, and it was not surprising to find them announce their final team immediately after the game.

The result in terms of goals was quite inconsequential. In fact, although the Whites won by the odd goal in seven, a draw with have been a more admirable and correct finish. Briefly the Whites' attacking machine was slightly more efficient than the Blues', while the latter held the balance in defence.

The heavy state of the ground gave rise to a feeling before the start of the game, that good football would be somewhat out of the question, but both teams adapted themselves well to the conditions, serving up fast and exciting exchanges.

PLAY THEMSELVES INTO TEAM

Chris Pile, A. V. Gosano, Tam Kong-pak and Albert Howe played themselves into the Interport side, all four doing splendidly. Pile was a tower of strength in the Blues' rear-guard, and A. V. Gosano masterly at right half, holding the Tay Qua-lung-Baldry combination with ease. His constructive work was as usual polished, and whatever doubts there might have been concerning his ability to take over the right half position, were completely dispelled.

Tam Kong-pak seems to be improving in every match, and he is easily Hongkong's most consistent goal-scorer. He was clever and mighty resourceful in front of goal yesterday, and, as has been consistently claimed in these columns, is to-day the best inside right in the Colony.

The reassertion of Howe was gratifying, and although not quite the stylist of Fung King-cheung, he is without argument, one of the most effective and efficient centre-forwards in local football. Yesterday he was able to use his famous body swerve to fullest advantage, and when the Blues were on the attack, Howe was always prominent.

RIDLEY RECOVERS

Not by any means at his best, yet withal playing a good average game, B. Gosano gave the impression that he had played himself into the Interport side. This was further emphasised by the absence of Leo Kwai-shing.

Dick Ridley recaptured some of his true form, and did not find the ground hamper his footwork so much as might have been expected. In this respect he was assisted by his weight. Definitely it was an improved Ridley on the man who figured in the first trial.

Bickford quietly and without flourish, accomplished a nice afternoon's work, and there is no gainsaying that he is playing better football now than ever before. He rarely wasted a pass, and was tricky in the bargain, fully competent to outwit Feneghan when occasion demanded. PARKER SEIZES OPPORTUNITY The absence of Leo Kwok-wai gave Parker his big chance, and the Policeman seized it with both hands, playing magnificently at left half for the Whites. His fine positioning and anticipation allowed him to thwart the right wing machinations time and again. He also seemed to gain confidence in the knowledge that his club-mate Pile was behind him.

Pardoe played his customary spilling game, and worked unceasingly. The only thing about Pardoe which needs serious improvement is his headwork. He is still prone to take the ball on the top of his head, instead of the forehead. But his ground passes were splendidly accurate, and timed, and he has few equals in the Colony for dogged tackling.

SOME OF THE OTHERS

Wong Wing emphasised his claims as the best custodian we have, but George Rodger came a good second, and it is most comforting to know the Colony has such a brilliant reserve goal-keeper.

Liggins, although again forceful and very willing, was not so impressive as in the last trial. He lacked the finesse and finish of his rival Tam, preferring rush tactics which were rather easily countered by the indomitable Pile and his companions.

Sydney Strange was a tower of strength in the Whites' defence, and Swaine rendered fine support. Elliott again showed he was on the borderline for Interport honours, and but for the worthiness of other players, would have made of the team this year. Here again the Colony is fortunate in boasting such a fine reserve forward.

On the whole, however, there was so little to choose between the individual merits of the players, that it was clear the final selections, would see very few changes from the Probable eleven. The few players who needed only a satisfying display to make their positions certain came up to scratch, and almost anybody could have forecast the selectors' decisions at the end of the game.

THE GOALS

Tam Kong-pak (from a penalty) and Elliott gave the Whites a lead of two clear goals at the interval, but Howe reduced this with a fine shot shortly after the resumption. Tam got away to score his second before Howe did the needful again. Then Elliott broke through in masterly fashion to beat Wong Wing, and before the close Howe gave Ridley a "gift" which the Lincoln man gratefully accepted. The Blues finished very strongly and had all the game in the last ten minutes.

NOT A WEAKNESS

TSO PREFERRED

PARKER IN

(By "Veritas").

The Hongkong Interport football selectors have done their task, and done it well. The announcement yesterday of the team to represent the Colony against Shanghai next Saturday created no real surprise. The only startling choice (if it can be put as high as that) was the preference of Tso Kwai-shing for Bernie Gosano on the right wing.

Judged on his form a week ago, and the fact that he played well yesterday I thought Gosano would more or less walk into the team. There is really so little to choose between Gosano and Tso. Indications were, that in making a comparison between the two in the first trial, and the fact that the selectors had no chance of judging the Chinese yesterday, one had to give Gosano the position.

A POWERFUL TEAM

The selectors have differed, but have not necessarily done the wrong thing. Tso is a fine player, and it is likely that he will make a better right wing with Tam Kong-pak than would Gosano. In fact it would appear the inclusion of Tam (which one felt all along was inevitable) automatically demanded the inclusion of Tso.

Hongkong will be fielding a powerful team next Saturday; a team well-balanced and with not the slightest hint of weakness in any department.

The half back line is especially noteworthy. Parker deservedly secures his place. Even if he had not played as well as he did yesterday, the selectors would still have been wise in choosing him, as Leo Kwok-wai, although possibly the better of the two, is suffering from the effects of a nasty kick, and, as I emphasised the other day, physical fitness is just as necessary as football skill.

"I THINK WE SHALL WIN"

The Colony can approach this Interport with supreme confidence. There is no necessity to underestimate Shanghai; it would be suicidal to do so; but the Hongkong team is one of the best turned out for several years, and there is such an abundance of talent in reserve, that if anything should happen to prevent the side from appearing as advertised, all positions can be adequately filled.

The selectors have picked a complete team of reserves, and that team could go out to-day and give the Interport eleven a magnificent game.

In fact, all we have to do now, is to sit back and wait contentedly for next Saturday. If our players give of their best I am sure they will win. Here is the team and reserves selected:

Inter-Club Tennis At The K.C.C.

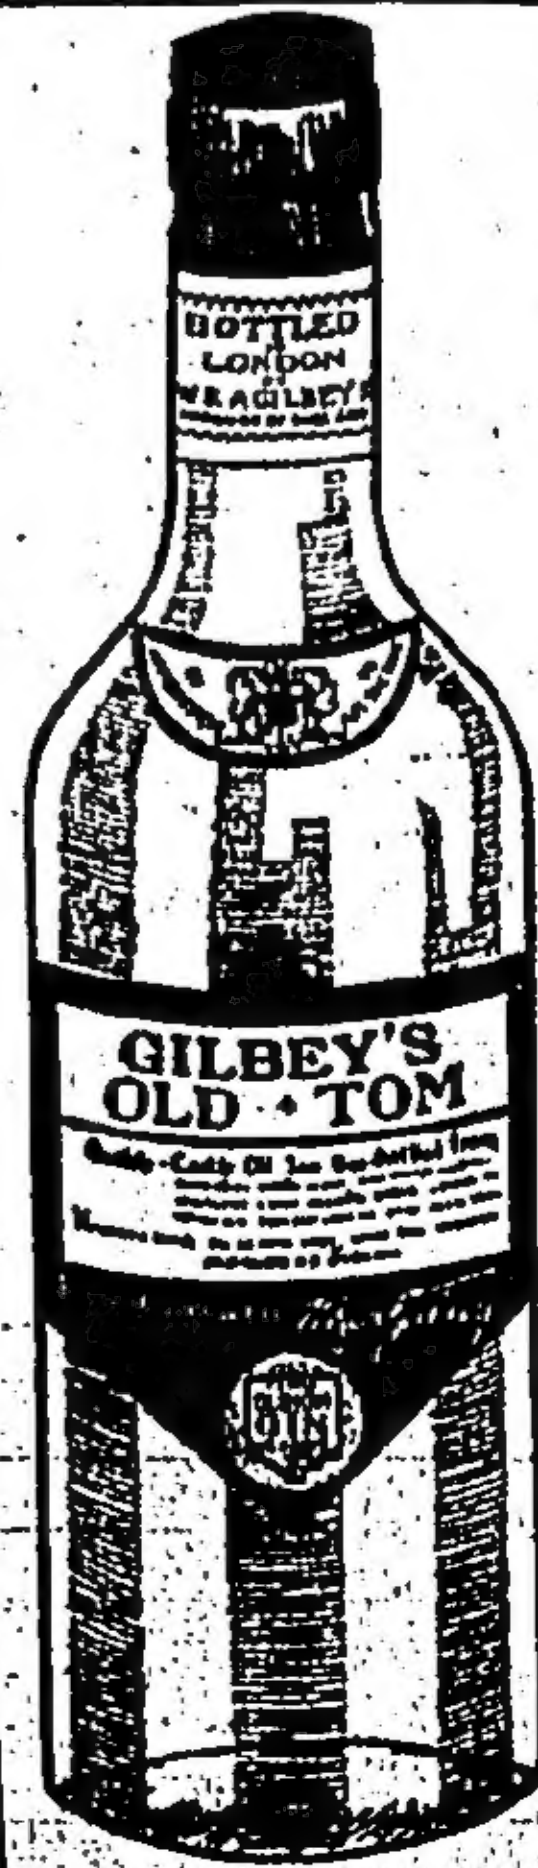

VISIT OF DEUTSCHER GARTEN KLUB A BIG SUCCESS

(By "Veritas")

Although the weather did its best to ruin the visit of the Tungshan Tennis Club to the Kowloon Cricket Club during the week-end, it succeeded only in curtailing the programme of matches. The other features of the event, congenial social companionship and merry-making were retained in full, and a particularly enjoyable time was spent by the players and their friends.

The persistent rain on Saturday and the dreary conditions yesterday failed to damp the ardour of the contestants for tennis, and altogether nearly thirty matches were played. Although the state of the courts made playing extremely difficult, the players showed remarkably good form, and several matches of unusual interest were enjoyed.

The K.C.C. ladies were again prominent, winning four out of five events. Tungshan scored in the men's doubles and easily held their own in the singles. The final

MARY RAYMOND

CHAPTER XXVI

Ann awakened early and dressed while Peter was still asleep. When he came out of his room she was sitting by a window, reading the morning newspaper. She handed it to him and watched as he read the article predicting an outbreak at the factory if work was started to-day. The employees were in an ugly mood. Even the most loyal were reported to be in an unsettled frame of mind. A meeting had been held at a hall in the community last night but old Peter Kendall and his grandson had refused to have the crowd dispersed by police.

"Why didn't you tell me?" Ann asked Peter.

"I didn't want you to worry," he said.

"What do the men want?"

"Are they entitled to more?"

Peter smiled at her, but answered seriously, "Yes and no. They are being paid more than most factory workers, and to raise their wages now isn't advisable."

"They think it would be too heavy a load to carry. The workers can't understand how $1,000,000 can be spent in improvements when wages can't be raised."

Ann said, "They need more money."

"Yes," Peter answered. "But this is not the way to get it."

Some day he would tell Ann about Oscar's home, about the undermanned children playing in one corner of the room. The children had been wearing old sweaters, patched and worn clothing. All the grownups had been huddled near the fire. Some laundry had been drying on a rack. The drab, colourless room. The hard-eyed, work-worn women. A foreman's salary, stretched to buy necessities for so many grown-ups and children, couldn't be expected to furnish luxuries, too.

Peter had been shocked, and stirred. Something was wrong when human beings laboured and struggled, yet came no nearer comfort than this.

"Why didn't you tell me?" Ann said. "It is foolhardy to begin work to-day."

Peter shook his head. "Any time would be bad."

Ann followed him to the door.

"Peter, you will be careful?"

"Yes. Don't worry. Things will be all right."

Ann waited until his car was out of sight and then went to her room and put on her coat and hat. Soon she was flying along the road, which Peter's car had passed shortly before.

Every nerve was tense as she passed Kendallwood and came into the town which was almost deserted. She took the road leading to the factory, passing crowds of women along the way. Some stared at her curiously. There were ugly looks from others.

Ann's heart was pounding with excitement when she drove into the grounds and parked her car. There was evidently at a state of tension, angry faces, violent gestures, angry voices. Now and then someone raised a voice in loud denunciation.

"It was impossible to go farther. She was hemmed in completely, powerless to penetrate the human wall before her."

Where was Peter? Straining her eyes, searching the crowd, she saw him suddenly step through an open door. He looked pale, but there was a determined set to his mouth and chin. A fighting look.

Tears filled Ann's eyes. She thought Peter looked like a brave young knight, defying his enemies. And then came the overwhelming realization. She loved Peter—not Tony!

Her lips were moving in prayer. "Dear God, save Peter for me. Don't let anything happen to Peter."

There was silence in the crowd as Peter began to speak. He was working in a few minutes. You must get to your places in the building or off the grounds."

A hoarse yell came from someone. "Tell us some more funny story. Who says we must? What all make us get off, young fellow?" An angry, angry man as the human wall swayed forward.

Ann was crying wildly. "Peter! stop! Leave them alone. Peter!"

But her voice was lost in the uproar.

"Hear him," a woman near Ann cried. "Hear him. Get out, will you?"

Peter stood quietly, waiting until the angry crowd quieted. He was searching the faces about him.

"Oscar," he said clearly. "I'm surprised to see you there. And you, Jim Foster, and you, Dan Walters. You men who have stood, shoulder to shoulder with my grandfather for so many years."

"The crowd was still, but only for a moment. And what did it get them, young man? What did it get them?"

Coarse laughter, oaths, hysterical cries from women.

Ann found herself holding tightly to the arm of an old woman with a wrinkled, weathered face. The woman said, "I've known that boy since he was knee-high. He's a good sort."

A good sort. Ann pressed the thin arm gratefully. She knew how good Peter was. Just as Ann did. It was a bond between them, the new plant.

Eric Olsen stepped out from the crowd and faced Peter. He was haggard. His face was covered by a beard, his eyes smouldered. Sure you would blame my father?" he said. "You're a man. All you're thinking about is more money for yourself and kin. More money to put into machines. You think we should be grateful for the wages we get?"

"Yes, I think you should be grateful," Peter said. "They're fair wages. More than most factory men draw. None of you have suffered. You have jobs, food, a shelter for yourselves and children. That's more than many men can say to-day."

"We don't want the new plant," Eric said. "Put the money in our pay envelopes."

And then a cry, "Stop talking. We've had enough talking. Get back to town where you belong."

"I belong here. I'm a Kendall."

CINEMA NEWS

NOTES FROM THE THEATRES

All the hustle, hub-bub consequent upon the departure of a cross-Channel boat from Dover is faithfully pictured in the Gaumont-British picture, "Channel Crossing", coming shortly to the Queen's Theatre, and for which actual scenes were taken at Dover Quay, and sequences, "shot" on board the cross-Channel steamer "Cantonbury".

Against this vivid and arresting background is played to a thrilling conclusion a drama, which holds with the dramatic intensity of its story of an international financier escaping to the Continent to avoid the consequences of an issue of false scrip.

With him is his girl secretary, the lover of the girl has followed the pair, and boards the boat, his advent being responsible for the thrilling climax which ensues. Matheson Lang is the financier to the life. He makes the character a strong, dominating force, relieved by lighter touches here and there. Constance Cummings, as the secretary, is brilliant in her dramatic scenes with the financier, as also in the love passages with her sweetheart, played by Anthony Bushel. Humour is in the safe hands of Edmund Gwenn, whilst Max Miller, as a pseudo traveller in everything from petrol lighters to motor cars, puts over many diverting little scenes. Other players in this maritime drama are Dorothy Dickson and Nigel Bruce.

"The World Moves On"

"Imagine a film star who methodically—and regularly—deflates her ego!" With this remark, Hollywood studio is the one used by Irving Cummings, director. It has no walls, a cement floor, and no ceiling, no telephone, no secretary. In other words, Cummings refuses to occupy an office, preferring to transact all office business outdoors: half-way between the office buildings, the projection rooms, the property building and the cafe. Story conferences, interviews with players in his picture, "I Believed In You," all take place in the outdoor office. "I Believed In You," with Ronald Ames, Victor Jory and John Holes in the featured roles, is now showing at the King's Theatre.

"Air Hostess"

Proving it is not so much what you do as how you do it that counts, the latest picture, "Air Hostess", which comes to the Alhambra this week, is destined to prove popular entertainment because, while it deals with a theme by no means unfamiliar to picture audiences, it treats that theme, aviation, from a new angle. It is the story of how our present day young girls, as hostesses on the giant commercial air liners that ply between cities on railroad schedule, share thrill for thrill, adventure for adventure with the men pilots, handles the idea from an entirely different angle. It is this angle of showing Mr. and Mrs. General Public just how they, in the everyday course of their lives, fit into the aviation scheme of things as passengers on these planes, that makes "Air Hostess" hit a little closer to home. Evelyn Knapp, James Murray and Thekla Todd are featured in the principal roles of the production. Miss Knapp plays pretty Kitty King, air hostess at the Grand Central Airport, whose newly acquired husband, Ted Hunter (Murray) falls for the beautiful Sylvia Carleton, a designing widow, played by Miss Todd, who uses as an excuse for seeing the personable Ted a promise to back his proposed Seattle-Tokyo flight. It is only the danger of death to his wife that snaps Ted out of his coma in a genuine smash climax that shows the daring pilot first stunting his plane over the train carrying his wife, to warn the engineer of a wash when this falls, crashing his plane directly in the path of the limited which pulls up not a hundred yards from destruction. "Air Hostess" is a series of similar thrills, serving as the fast and furious background for a crack-up but zooms safely to a happy landing. Matchless aerial shots and expert direction at the hands of Al Rogers all tend to make "Air Hostess" a real screen fact. The story, which ran as the intimate revelations of a codor, Venus of the air in True Story Magazine, was brought to the screen by the writers, Keene Thompson and Milton Raison. Arthur Flier, Mike Donlin, Dutch Hendrian, J. M. Kerrigan, Jane Darwell and Arthur East are more than competent in important supporting roles.

"What Every Woman Knows"

Helen Hayes is seen in another of her great personal triumphs "What Every Woman Knows" now showing at the Queen's Theatre and the picture which we receive the acclaim of the public and all critics alike. Surpassing all of her previous efforts, a Miss Hayes has achieved a new strength in emotional portrayals. Her appeal seems to reach out from the screen to actually with the spectator. In many ways with the character of the play, intensity and a film belief in the motives of the story are evident in her every action. As John Shand, self-centred husband who does not realise all the help his wife is giving him, Brian Aherne has an entirely new character, which can come only from within.

"I Believed In You"

The largest office at the Fox Film studio is the one used by Irving Cummings, director. It has no walls, a cement floor, and no ceiling, no telephone, no secretary. In other words, Cummings refuses to occupy an office, preferring to transact all office business outdoors: half-way between the office buildings, the projection rooms, the property building and the cafe. Story conferences, interviews with players in his picture, "I Believed In You," all take place in the outdoor office. "I Believed In You," with Ronald Ames, Victor Jory and John Holes in the featured roles, is now showing at the King's Theatre.

"Air Hostess"

Proving it is not so much what you do as how you do it that counts, the latest picture, "Air Hostess", which comes to the Alhambra this week, is destined to prove popular entertainment because, while it deals with a theme by no means unfamiliar to picture audiences, it treats that theme, aviation, from a new angle. It is the story of how our present day young girls, as hostesses on the giant commercial air liners that ply between cities on railroad schedule, share thrill for thrill, adventure for adventure with the men pilots, handles the idea from an entirely different angle. It is this angle of showing Mr. and Mrs. General Public just how they, in the everyday course of their lives, fit into the aviation scheme of things as passengers on these planes, that makes "Air Hostess" hit a little closer to home. Evelyn Knapp, James Murray and Thekla Todd are featured in the principal roles of the production. EMIGRANTS' VISAS

ANNOUNCEMENT BY CONSUL FOR NICARAGUA

The Consul for Nicaragua advises that acting under instructions of his Government and in accordance to the country, it is of the utmost importance that all Chinese and immigrant passengers travelling to Nicaragua report in person to the Consulate to have their documents vised.

The Consul advises that without first securing proper visas on their documents, passengers will not be permitted to land in Nicaragua, and if such is not secured at this port, passengers are liable to the fine provided in the Immigration law and to be deported from that country.

The Nicaraguan Consulate is located at 40 Grayville Road, Kowloon, and if intending passengers will report to this Consulate, they will be courteously treated and their papers checked, and if in order, a visa will be issued permitting entrance into Nicaragua.

There is no other representative for the Government of Nicaragua than Mr. Trinidad E. Lacayo, located at the above address. It is of importance that passengers report to the Consul himself and not to any other person.

U.S. LEGISLATION

JURIST'S WARNING TO NATION

New York, Jan. 27. Mr. Donald R. Richberg appealed to the members of the New York Bar to-day to strive for interpretations of the Constitution of the United States which will make it possible for the Administration to carry out the principles of the New Deal.

Mr. Richberg, who is one of the most prominent lawyers in the United States, was one of the co-authors of the famous National Industrial Recovery Act, and is now a member of the General Council of the N.R.A.

During his speech, Mr. Richberg warned his hearers that the nation had been on the verge of rebellion when President Roosevelt was inaugurated, and rebellion again threatened unless the Supreme Court fitted the Constitution to the Administration's conception of the Rights of Man.—United Press.

President Roosevelt Will Administer Relief

Washington, Jan. 27. It is authoritatively stated that President Roosevelt will personally administer the U.S.$4,000,000,000 Relief appropriation.

Only 78 Members of the House of Representatives opposed the passage of the legislation last week, and it is anticipated that it will pass through the Senate this week without undue obstruction.—United Press.

Grave Allegations

Washington, Jan. 27. A number of Federal officers are involved in grave allegations of conspiracy to defraud the Government in connection with a $4,000,000 project for the construction of a canal in Texas.

Mr. Leslie G. Garnett, U.S. District Attorney for the District of Columbia, has ordered an investigation into the allegations, and a special grand jury has been summoned to meet on February 6.

This will be the first occasion a grand jury has been summoned since the famous Teapot Dome scandal in 1929.

Critics alleged in Congress that the Government has been defrauded of millions of dollars by those who have handled the vast sums allotted for public works during the past two years.—Reuter.

FIERCE STORMS OVER EUROPE SEAMEN'S FAREWELL TO "OLD ENGLAND" LOST ON ICELAND COAST: GENJA REACHES PORT

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received Jan. 28, 9.30 a.m.)

London, Jan. 27.
A large part of Europe and the whole of North America are still in the grip of exceptionally severe winter weather, to which heavy snow falls, fierce, icy gales and floods are contributory features.

Snow again fell heavily in many districts of Britain last night and the wind velocity in some places reached 80 miles per hour.

Immense snow drifts have isolated many farmsteads in Lincolnshire.

The most unpleasant feature of this season is the storms along the coast. High winds and snow flurries which left mariners blinded in a tumble of water, sent most of the coastal craft hurrying for shelter.

But many trawlers have been driven ashore and their crews only rescued in the nick of time.

TRAGIC DISCOVERY

There have been tragedies, too. The wreckage of the Grimsby trawler, Jerin, whose crew sent a message of farewell by radio to "Old England" during Wednesday's gale, has been found on a giant stretch of the Iceland coast. The wreckage told its own pitiful tale.

The same coast nearly claimed another victim in the trawler Night Hawk, which has been found drifting helplessly, her bridge and funnel swept away and her mate gone overboard.

LIMPS INTO PORT

The Latvian steamer Genja, which was swept out to sea when attempting to enter Blyth harbour on January 26 (Saturday) with two Blyth pilots aboard, after having been missing for thirty hours, struggled into Hull to-day.

The storms extended as far south as Spain. The whole of France was swept by snowstorms and the tempests last night did serious damage to the fishing ports.

PARIS "SNOWED UNDER"

Paris, Rouen and Lille are deep in snow. The capital's entire "snow defence" force of 4,500 men, has been called out to clear away the fall of the past several hours which has almost completely tied up traffic throughout the city.

Rome and Naples have also had snowfalls.—Reuter Special.

TEACHING OF HYGIENE

DR. LI SHU-FAN'S
QUESTIONS

At to-morrow's meeting of the Sanitary Board, Dr. Li Shu-fan is to ask the following questions with reference to the teaching of hygiene in the English and vernacular schools of the Colony:

- Whether or not the subject of hygiene is included in the syllabus of all the English and Vernacular Schools?
- What are the names of the English and Chinese text-books in general use?
- (i) Are all of such text-books in use recommended or approved by the Director of Education?
- (ii) If the answer is in the negative, state reason.
- (i) In what grade of the English and Vernacular Schools is the subject of hygiene first taught and how long is the course?
- (ii) Does the Director of Education consider the text-books in use adequate and satisfactory?
- (i) If not, state how and when will the situation be remedied.

Washington, Jan. 27.
The Russian Minister, M. Troynovsky, who has been having conference with President Roosevelt and other prominent American political figures, but who recently returned to Moscow to report to his Government, is back in Washington.

He is bringing the Soviet's answer to the United States' proposal for the partial payment of the Soviet debt to America. He is expected to confer with Mr. Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, on Monday.—United Press.

MEXICO WOOLING SOVIET

Mexico City, Jan. 27.

Pointing out the common anti-clerical policies of Mexico and Russia, observers here are speculating as to whether Mexico is not preparing to resume friendly diplomatic relations with Russia and, as a first step towards this end, recognising the Red Republics.

Attention has been drawn to the articles appearing recently in a Government newspaper, El Nacional, in connection with the anniversary of the death of the hero of the Soviet, M. Lenin.

These articles are believed to be part of an officially inspired effort to sound public opinion on the recognition of the Soviet.—United Press.

Hunt For Vanished Gold Bars

FELL FROM AIR
LINER

COUNTIES

London, Jan. 27.

One of the most exciting treasure hunts in England's history is proceeding throughout Essex, Kent and Sussex.

Hundreds of private persons, as well as police, have organised search parties, the prize of the quest being a bulky box of gold bars, lost from an air liner.

The plane was bound from France yesterday when the terrific wind wrenched open the door of the baggage compartment and allowed the precious freight to fall. The pilot has no idea, however, where the mishap occurred.

It may have been while he was fighting the wind over the Channel; but it is just as likely that the gold, valued at over £22,000 according to some authorities, lies half buried in some English meadow.

The police of Essex, Kent and Sussex have been mobilised for the search.

The plane is known to have crossed these counties, flying over sparsely populated districts for the most part, and thus complicating the search. Few persons recall having heard the plane pass, fewer still saw it in the stormy sky.

Owing to their weight, and the height from which they fell, it is possible that the bars are buried deep in the earth.

A partner of Samuel Montagu and Company, to whom the gold was consigned, stated that the bullion might be worth over £22,000, as the company was expecting a consignment of eight bars which would be worth £2,800 each.—Reuter.

WORLD COURT RECRUIT?

U.S. CONGRESS TO VOTE ON MEASURE

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, January 27, 9.30 a.m.)

Washington, Jan. 27.

A vote in Congress is expected on Tuesday on the Administration's measure providing the machinery for the entry of the United States into the World Court at the Hague.

In spite of considerable opposition, it is expected that the Democratic leaders of Senate and House will have sufficient support to obtain the necessary two-thirds earlier champion, had defeated Sir Edward Grey for the title in 1898. The late Mr. Gould was active in Wall Street at one time.—Reuter.

SEARCH ALONG
WILD COAST

TERRIBLE WEATHER

New York, Jan. 27.

The search for the ten missing persons from the Ward Line steamer Mohawk, which sank following a collision with the s.s. Talisman off the New Jersey coast on Thursday night has been abandoned. They have been given up as dead.

The loss of lives in this disaster is now officially stated to have reached the total of 46, including the ten missing. Altogether 117 persons were rescued.

It is known that the master of the vessel, and five others of his crew, went down with the ship.

Coastguardsmen and others engaged in the search for the ten persons of the Mohawk still unaccounted for, abandoned their quest because it was recognised that no one could have survived the bitter cold on the New Jersey coast prevailing since the Mohawk sank.

Even if some of the missing had reached shore through the surf, which is most unlikely, they must have perished long before now unless succour had been at hand.—Reuter.

HAUPTMANN TO CONFESS?

PREDICTION OF PROSECUTION

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, January 27, 11.30 a.m.)

Flemington, Jan. 27.

The State prosecution, led by the Attorney-General, Mr. Wilentz, has predicted that Bruno Hauptmann, charged with murder and kidnapping in the Lindbergh tragedy, will "crack" within a week.

The prediction is regarded as meaning that Hauptmann will confess to having participated in the crime before the trial is concluded.

The defence, which Mr. Edward Reilly leads, declares Hauptmann is confident and calm, and that there is no possibility of a confession since the man is not guilty.—United Press.

Lau Ng, widow, was sent to prison for one month when she appeared before Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Central Magistracy this morning and pleaded guilty to stealing 21½ yards of silk from a shop at No. 48 Queen's Road Central. Sergeant M. Flattery stated the woman was wearing a shawl at the time of the theft.—Reuter.

Refugees Flee From Charhar

HOPE FOR PEACE WITH JAPAN

PEKING PLANS FOR PARLEY

Peking, Jan. 28.

It is learned in reliable quarters that the Chinese Government will appoint three delegates to attend the conference at which it is hoped the question of the Charhar-Johol border demarcation will be settled, and the excuse for a repetition of the recent hostilities at Kuyuan, between Chinese and Japanese troops, finally removed.

The delegates will be chosen from the Political and Military Councils here and from the Charhar Provincial Army, one from each branch of service.

It is expected that the conference will meet before the end of January at Kalgan.

Though Charhar at the moment remains quiet, the civilian population is extremely nervous, for they have seen aeroplane bombing in some parts and ugly rumours have drifted in from other territories, causing panic amongst thousands.

Refugees are reported to be pouring into Kalgan from Eastern Charhar, and some have come as far as Peking.—Reuter.

Mr. Ho Chi-kung, Secretary-General of the Peking Political Readjustment Council, was a passenger aboard the same liner. He is staying for three days in Shanghai, and then will leave for Nanking en route to Peking.—Reuter.

NO COMMENT

Shanghai, Jan. 28.

Dr. Hu Shih, the noted philosopher, arrived here aboard the s.s. President Hoover after his tour of the South, in the course of which he was honoured by the Hongkong University. Dr. Hu declined to make any statement regarding the cool reception which he encountered in Canton. He announced that he is leaving very shortly for Peking.—Reuter.

FIGHTING FOR SILVER

FULL REMONETISATION ULTIMATE GOAL

Washington, Jan. 27.

A committee from the Silver Group in Congress, presided over by Representative John A. Martin of Colorado, and including Representatives J. W. Robinson of Utah, J. P. Monaghan of Montana, Greener of Wyoming, Dempsey of New Mexico, Mrs. Greenway of Arizona, C. I. White of Idaho, Walter Pierce of Oregon and James Scrugham of Nevada, has been scheduled to meet this week.

The purpose of the committee is to decide upon the programme to be presented to Congress, embracing what they consider to be the best means of expediting the Treasury's Silver Purchasing Programme.

Representative Abe Murdock of Utah, Chairman of an informal organisation of Western Congressmen, interviewed by the United Press to-day, said: "We feel that the present law, if properly administered, would go a long way towards helping the silver situation; but silver must be completely remonetised before the desired results can be obtained."

Mr. Murdock also said the situation would be helped if the Treasury made real efforts to acquire a silver reserve within a reasonable time.

He added: "All the silver men in the House agree, that under no conditions should they allow the issue to remain silent, but should do all that is possible to obtain hearings that will keep the issue alive."

AMERICAN INVESTOR STILL SHY

MONEY IN BANKS:
NOT STOCK

"GOLD CLAUSE" DOUBTS

New York, Jan. 26.

Although the uncertain outcome of the "gold clause" case is the chief reason for the present lethargy on the Stock Market, it was pointed out here to-day that taxes, monetary problems and other impending legislation are additional sources of worry for investors.

During 1934 the deposits in all commercial banks was approximately $40,000,000,000, which was a $7,000,000,000 increase on the previous year's deposits, and which compares very evenly with the period 1926-1930, wherein deposits reached $47,000,000,000 from $40,500,000,000, despite which however, Stock values failed to keep pace.

On September 1, 1929, the total Stocks listed had a market valuation of $39,668,276,954.

At the end of 1934 the total valuation was $32,938,882,614.

The tremendous bank deposits during 1934, however, failed to stimulate a demand for investment securities, a fact due purely to hesitancy on the part of businessmen to speculate or invest in stocks.—United Press.

INFLATION NOT EXPECTED

New York, Jan. 26.

The decline of stocks most directly influenced by inflationary sentiment on Wall Street, is interpreted as reflecting the prevailing doubts in the Stock Market that Congress intends to make any move toward inflation in the immediate future.—United Press.

Greta Garbo in A Comedy
Picture

"PAINTED VEIL"

"The Painted Veil," which has appeared in London, reveals a new Greta Garbo. The Garbo of "Grand Hotel" and "As You Desire Me," and "Queen Christina," the slow-spoken, heavily-lidded siren, is gone. In her place is a laughing, high-spirited, very human young woman with a very slight accent and a knack of putting over dialogue (writes the film correspondent of the Daily Telegraph.)

The first half of the film is mainly comedy. Whereas Somerset Maugham's book starts with a dramatic scene where the guilty couple stare terrified at the slowly turning door-handle, the film acts out to show the cause to marry a doctor who does not love and how she fell in love with the attractive, shallow colonial official.

The bedroom scene, obviously first-rate material for drama, has been eliminated entirely, no doubt as a concession to America's new standard of purity.

Nor do the changes end here. The central situation—that of the doctor who drags his wife to a plague-stricken area to punish her for her unfaithfulness—remains, but otherwise the story has been pulled about to make possible a conventionally happy ending.

It is worth the money to see the Olympian Garbo as a Cinderella, hooking up her sister's dresses, tossing the conversational ball to and fro with George Brent, growing enthusiastic at the enchanting sights and sounds of China; and she shows in the dramatic passages that she has still the power to suggest passion with a fine economy of voice and gesture.

Herbert Marshall plays the husband remarkably well, particularly in the scene where he tells his wife of his discovery and her fate; George Brent is the lover.

Richard Boleslavsky's direction is notable for a lovely Chinese festival and the urgency and power of the panic scenes in the cholera stricken city.

THE FILMS OF 1935

"Chief characteristics of talking picture entertainment in 1935 will be good music, clean comedy, and drama of modern life, all built on strong, simple stories of present-day times," says Winfield Sheehan, the Fox vice-president in charge of production.

"The campaign to eliminate certain questionable elements from motion pictures will result in 1935 in a marked improvement in the quality of screen-plays through the efforts of producers to maintain a high moral tone and increasingly fine quality dialogue in their pictures."

"I believe new attendance records will be obtained during 1935 as a result of improvement in quality and moral character of moving picture entertainment."

BRITISH ACTOR OPPOSITE
MAE WEST

Paul Cavanagh, the British actor, is to play the leading role in Mae West's next Paramount picture, "Now I'm a Lady."

Cavanagh was born in 1895 at Chislehurst, Kent. Leaving Emmanuel College, Cambridge, he went to Canada, where he served in the North-West Mounted Police and later joined the Canadian Dragoons and served in the War. After the Armistice he returned to Canada and practised as a barrister, but soon turned his attention to the stage. Since then he has appeared in a large number of films.

COOKERY NOTES

"Beauty of Crepe Satin." "There is no doubt that, for what we have come to regard as important occasions, nothing is so attractive or becoming as the new soft crepe satin." The hostess gown illustrated was made of rose colour satin.

LENTIL SOUP

THIS soup can be made without a stock, though the contents of a stock-pot always helps both in flavour and nutriment. Ingredients: 3/4 lb. red lentils, one quart cold water or stock, 1 onion, one carrot, 1 oz. dripping. Wash the lentils well. Prepare the vegetables and cut them into small pieces, melt the fat in a saucepan, add the carrot, onion and lentils, and fry them lightly; put in the water or stock, boil it up, skim, and let it simmer for an hour. When the lentils are soft, rub the soup through a sieve, using a wooden spoon, rinse out the pan and put the soup back, boil up, season to taste, and serve.

CONTROL OF ARTISTSNO FOREIGN ENGAGEMENTS

Berlin, Dec. 26. It has become known that Dr. Goebbels, as head of the Reich Chamber of Culture, some months ago forbade German artists of all kinds and German lecturers to accept engagements abroad without the express authorisation of the president of their own sub-chamber (of music, painting and sculpture, the stage, literature, and the like).

To disobey this order entailed expulsion from membership of a chamber, and ineligibility to work in Germany; the reason for it was said to be the lack of co-ordination between the foreign journeys of various German artists, or companies and the necessity of ensuring that only persons who would leave behind them "a really deep impression of our intellectual activities" should go abroad.

The order was recently—at about the time of Dr. Furtwangler's resignation—ordered to be reprinted in the professional journals, but not in the daily Press. It may explain the difficulties facing such men as Dr. Furtwangler, if they do not wish to become exiles.

on a petition brought by a theatrical company on December 20. A director of the company was quoted as saying that Professor Reinhardt agreed to produce "Die Fledermaus" in London.

STRANGE
WILLSLAWYER'S GIFT TO LUNATICSCANTANKEROUS
HUSBAND

During the preparation of a recent film it was desired to introduce into the story a will of rather irregular form, and researches were conducted for actual precedents to avoid a charge of improbability.

The files of a number of California attorneys yielded many examples of crude and eccentric wills which the law admitted to probate. The case of the dying sailor who bequeathed, "These are for Daisy," as he held out his watch and a few coins, was cited, as well as the instance of the millionaire who left nothing but the family Bible to his heir. It was later discovered that the Bible contained a number of marked passages which, when put together, explained where his tremendous fortune was hidden.

A Frenchman ordered that a recipe for a new dish be pasted on his tomb every day, and a compatriot of his, a lawyer, left £10,000 to a local lunatic asylum, declaring that it was simply an act of restitution to the clients who were insane enough to employ his services.

A carefully-worded statement providing for the disposition of his property was found, some 20 years ago, on the fly-leaf of a German novel belonging to a suicide. Although unwitnessed, it was declared valid.

RHYMING TESTAMENT

In 1837, the following rhyme composed by one William Hicking-ton served as his last testament:—

This is my last will,
I insist on it still;
And I'll laugh your fill.
I, William Hicking-ton,
Poet of Pocklington,
Do give and bequeath
To thee, Mary Jarum,
The Queen of my Harum,
My cash and my cattle,
With every chattel.
To have and to hold,
Come heat or come cold,
Sane hindrance or strife,
Though thou art not my wife,
As witness my hand,
The 12th day of July,
In the year Seventy.

In 1902 a cantankerous husband left his wife penniless unless she married again within five years—the reason for this proviso being that he wanted some one else to learn how difficult it was to live with her.

On April 17, 1725, in London, a man left twenty shillings a year to any one who would "go about the parish church during the sermon to keep people awake and dogs out."

In Canada, a woman left twelve shares of stock to her husband and four to her dog, Frolic. A Scotsman, solving the problem of favouritism, gave each of his four daughters her weight in banknotes.

TO PROMOTE VIRTUE

Wills which aim to promote virtue and discourage vice are common. A bachelor who died a few years ago on his New York estate provided that none of his nephews should inherit unless he could prove that he had led a life of almost angelic virtue. The conditions specifically mentioned were:—That they should not smoke or drink; that they should never enter a bar-room; and that they should not marry before the age of 30. All but one of the nephews were disinherited. The fortunate heir was four years old.

A cynic who died friendless left all his money to the man who could prove that he was a Christian, and then set forth a definition of Christianity that would exclude every one living.

EUROPE'S
QUEER

FROM A CORRESPONDENT

Europe has some queer corners, such as cannot be seen from the windows of a Wagon Lit nor through the windshield of a speeding motor-car. Some of the queerest are those pockets in the great mountain ranges, where the tide of half forgotten invasions either never penetrated, or, if it did, receded, leaving behind communities of primitive people, like pools on a rocky beach. They are untroubled by the tourist and unharmed by the charabanc. To them a visitor is an object of curiosity not unmixed with fear, and of unfailing kindness and courtesy.

Such was my own experience in Ruthenia. I arrived at a real railway station in a real town of large buildings and cobbled streets. I was met by a young man in a sky-blue uniform and full of phrases in stilted English. He explained to me that the Presidential motor-car was otherwise engaged, though it would be put later at my disposal. Meanwhile, he had provided for my luggage a fine bullock-cart, drawn by two enormous white beasts, and capable of carrying the household furniture of Louis XIV. My small and shabby suitcase was put into it with a ceremony suitable for crown jewels.

Ruthenia is a self-governing province of Czechoslovakia. It actually asked to join that State because in the turbulent years of post-war Europe some flag had to be flown by any ship which did not wish to be pirated. But it claims to be the first permanent home in Europe of the Russian race and to speak the Russian tongue in its oldest and purest form. It is therefore proudly, if not fiercely, national, and has its full complement of Ministers and administrators, who are properly cautious in governing its wild highlanders, but exercise a temperate and tolerant authority over the milder people of the valleys. The Government is tolerant indeed. I found, a few miles from Uzhorod, the capital, a permanent gypsy settlement, equipped with a school where Romany is taught. I also found a castle where the chateau was a countrywoman of my own, who had exchanged the hills of Argyllshire for the Carpathians 50 years before, and had not spoken to one from her own country for 30 years.

PLACE OF BEAUTY

The day after my arrival the motor-car duly appeared, together with a guide who put my French to shame. But it needed no guide to explain the beauty of the country. We traversed it from end to end, through a succession of hamlets, where the houses clustered on the banks of mountain torrents round pagoda-like churches roofed with wooden shingles weathered to a silver grey. In the remoter villages high up in the mountains, which are reached by roads where the car seemed to leap from boulder to boulder, the houses are stockaded round with tall alabs of wood to keep out wolves and bears in the winter. The land is full of colour. The houses are painted with a wash of pale blue, and round the doors and windows are stencillings of brilliant greens, blues, and reds. Over the walls the pepper plant riots in profusion. The people not only have a national dress but also wear it. It is a full-sleeved white blouse, like the top half of a Bishop's surplice, decorated with exquisite embroidery in geometric designs, exactly like the border of a Persian rug. These strips of embroidery are peculiar to the country—they are not exported—and so are the great double bags of woven cloth which every person wears slung over the left shoulder, generally with a baby in the rear pouch, and some domestic animal or produce in the front pouch. The people are shy but lively. I pointed my camera at a woman washing clothes in a mountain stream, with her baby lying beside her. In a flash she leaped up, seized her child, and bolted into her house. The schoolmaster who was showing me round the village followed and soothed her, and in a few minutes she was changed into her best Sunday dress, a little sheepskin jacket all glorious with colour, and a new apron of woven scarlet and green threads. But she would not bring out the baby.

The end of our journey was a visit to my guide's relations in a village on the Rumanian frontier. There is only one living room in the Ruthenian house, and if the family is large some members of it have to sleep on the dining benches. If there is a guest, who does not know that he or she is expected to go to bed first and in public, the evening is apt to be prolonged, and my liveliest recollection of that night is wondering for hours whether it would be possible to faint in order to be taken to bed without embarrassment. Finally I took my courage and my pyjamas in both hands, and the hint was taken as a matter of course. I hope that I behaved properly and left the Ruthenian opinion of Scotland unimpaired. In any case, let me assure my kind hosts that the Scottish opinion of Ruthenia is that she is as lovely and her people as fine as any to be found north of the Tweed.

MANUSCRIPTSHALF GREAT
LIBRARY

The first part of the well-known library formed by the late Mr. Ogden Goelet is to be sold shortly at the American Art Association's Gallery, New York, by order of his son, Mr. Robert Goelet.

Mr. Ogden Goelet, who was born in New York in 1846, died on board his yacht, the Mayflower, in 1897. The Mayflower was later sold to the United States Government and subsequently became the Presidential yacht.

Like many other New York families, the Goelets are of Huguenot descent, and have been established in New York for over 250 years.

Mr. Goelet was one of the great collectors of his time. Most of the important libraries formed by his contemporaries have long since been dispersed or found permanent homes in public institutions, and

Mr. Goelet's latent these many years, now stands as one of the last of the great American libraries of the nineteenth century available to the collector to-day.

The Goelet library was started in a small way in 1866, and continued for 25 years. Its outstanding features are the Americana; the Cruikshank, Dickens, and Thackeray collections of original drawings, books, and autographs; and the first editions of English and American authors of the last century.

Much of the Americana, the assembling of which was begun in 1876, was purchased at the public sale of the libraries of Almon W. Griswold, William Menzies, George Brinley, Dr. Edmund B. O'Callaghan, the Hon. H. C. Murphy, Samuel L. M. Barlow, and others.

The Cruikshank collection was begun as early as 1872, and a few years later an attempt was made to obtain all the prints described in Reid's catalogue, the measure of success of which ambitious project can be seen in the wonderful array of that artist's work represented in the library. The Dickens and Thackeray collections, which include many original drawings and autograph letters, were begun about the same time, the former being considerably enhanced in 1890 by the addition of a series of original water-colour drawings by Hablot K. Browne ("Phiz") illustrating most of Dickens's important novels, purchased at the sale of the library of Frederick W. Cosens.

The first editions of English and American authors were collected between 1886 and 1890.

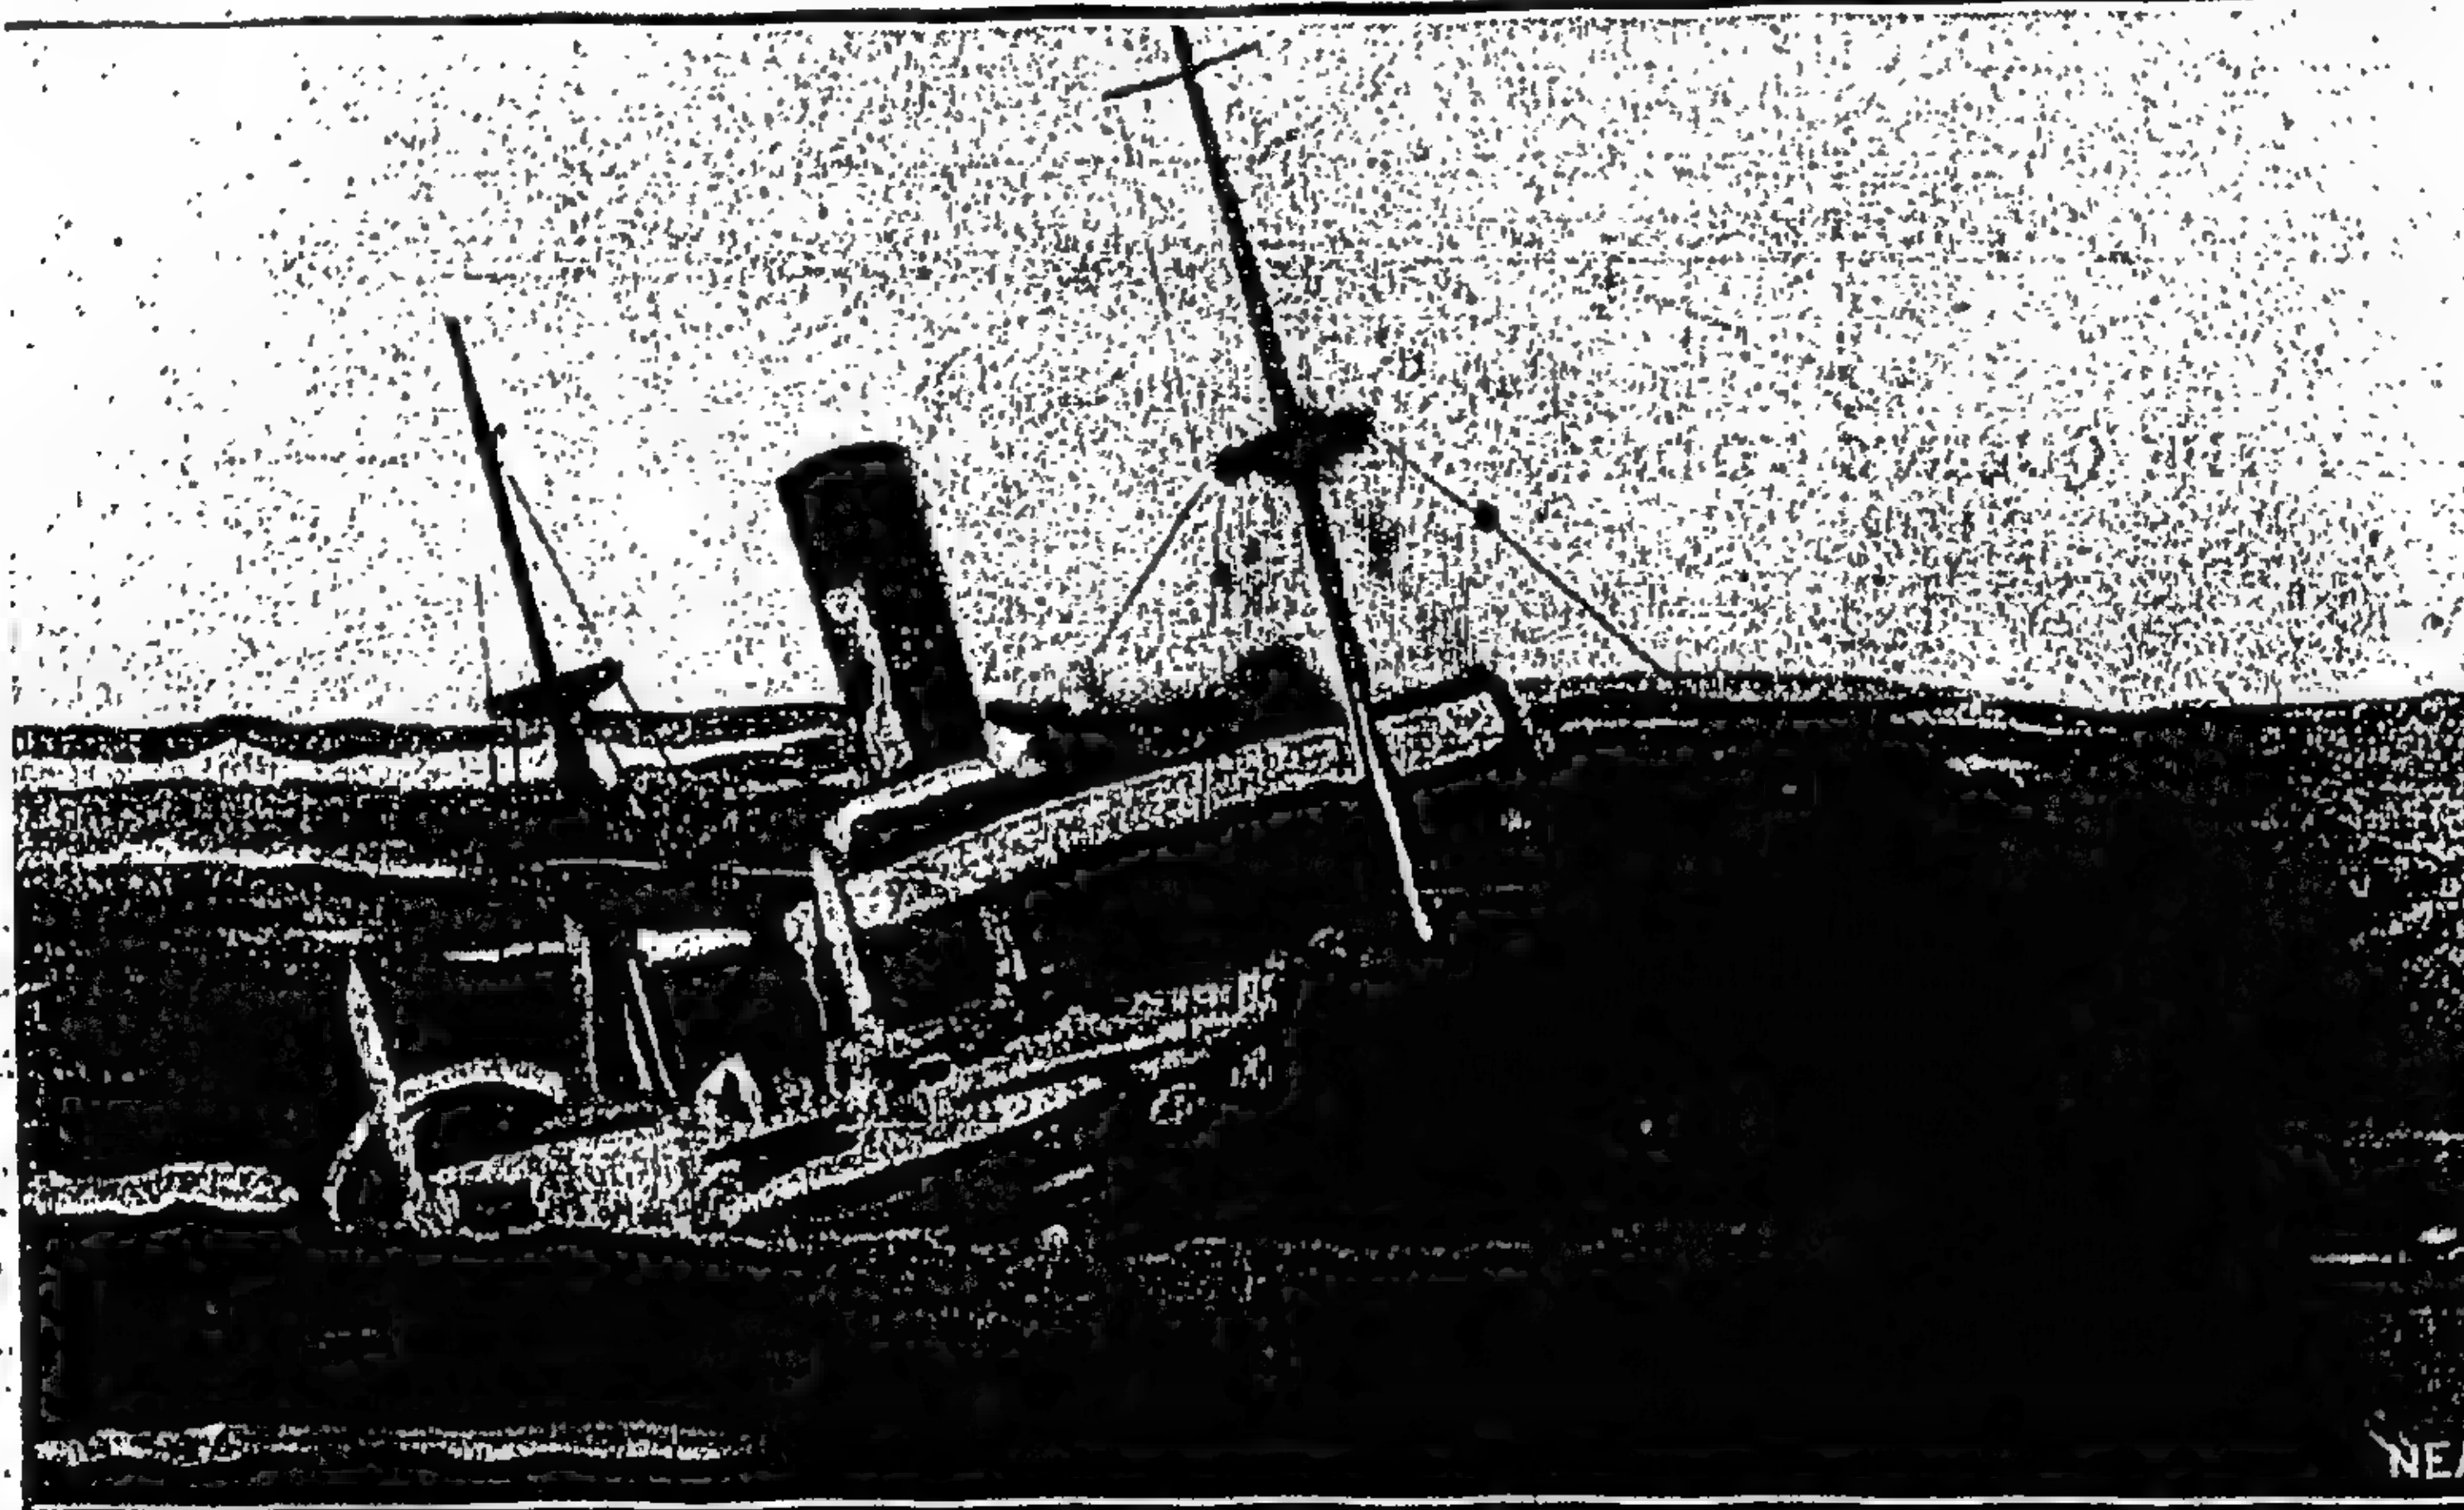

The selection to be sold in January, catalogued in 400 lots, comprises about half the library and the remaining portion will be sold later in the season.

An outstanding item of the Americana is the original manuscript of General Benedict Arnold's "Expedition to Quebec in 1776," describing an American army's heroic and tragic struggle through the wilderness, a document left by General Arnold at West Point when he fled to the British; there is, too, the Murphy set of the Jesuit Relations, comprising 42 original editions of the annual reports sent by the missionaries in New France to the Head Provincial of the Jesuit Society in France from 1632 to 1672; and the manuscript diary of Baron Cromot-du-Bois, aide-de-camp of Count Rochambeau, written during active participation under the latter's command in the campaign which culminated in the siege and surrender of York Town, illustrated with 12 maps and plans and a water-colour view of New port.

The funeral for Sergei Kirov, assassinated member of the high council of the Soviet party and one of Joseph Stalin's chief lieutenants, was the most impressive since the revolution. Here are pictured high Soviet officials in Red Square, Moscow, marching behind Kirov's casket. Stalin is in the centre with V. M. Molotov and K. E. Voroshilov close beside him.

Here's a graphic view of the latest tragedy in the North Atlantic Ocean—the sinking of the British freighter Usworth in a wild storm, 500 miles off Ireland. Nine members of the freighter's crew were saved. Fifteen from the Usworth and two men from a rescuing vessel were drowned when a lifeboat capsized. Photo taken aboard the rescue ship Ascania was brought to Halifax, transported by airplane to New York, and transmitted to San Francisco by radiotelephone.

SMILING IN THE RAIN
with FISHER NO DRAFT VENTILATION

Even when rain pelts against the windows of your car, you'll be dry and comfortable inside. If your car has Fisher No Draft Ventilation.

You can open one of those smart Ventipanes just a little, and out goes the stuffy air, in comes the pure fresh air, without drafts or any splatter of raindrops. This helps to keep the inside of the windshield clear for front seat passengers, which certainly makes driving safer for all concerned. And it keeps the occupants in the back seats from being chilled by drafts, or getting all hot and squirmy and restless.

In fact, it would be hard for anyone to get tired of riding in the smart, strong safe new Body by Fisher.

The seats are wider, deeper . . . the cushions more luxuriously restful . . . the whole interior noticeably more spacious. That's one of the first things which will impress you, when you see and examine the new CHEVROLET SIX.

Hitler. The money saved on these days of national self-denial all goes to the Winter Help Movement.

Every fair-minded person who knows Germany in pre-Hitler days will agree that these achievements constitute a miracle of national recovery. It gives me special satisfaction to testify to this from the city where the Nazi movement was born, and where, two and a quarter years before Hitler came to power,
I was the first outside the ranks of his own followers to make a public prophecy of his ultimate triumph.

Are we in Britain awake to what this recovery means, or is our judgment still fogged by distorted impressions derived from prejudice and propaganda?

As I have said before I now repeat, that nearly all the news regarding the Nazi regime published even in our most responsible journals is pure moonshine. These have spread, for instance, the impression that German Jews lead an almost hunted existence. Yet in German hotels and restaurants I have frequently seen merry and festive parties of German Jews who showed no symptoms of insecurity or suffering.

I was glad to read the statement made in a wireless broadcast by Sir Austen Chamberlain since I have been in Germany, to the effect that the Hitler regime is firmly rooted.
Nothing could be more evident and certain, yet so slow are some of our public men to recognise plain facts that Sir Austen's frank and common-sense declaration deserves appreciation.

I regard Germany to-day as not only potentially but actually the strongest Power on the Continent of Europe, for what she may lack in material equipment—and this I believe, amounts to very little indeed—is more than made up by the superb spirit of the nation and its supreme confidence in its Leader.

We have no ground of quarrel with these people. Their interests, our own, and those of the entire civilised world will be best served by close and friendly co-operation between us.

When once a few of the more glaring injustices imposed by the Peace Settlement have been removed, there will be no reason why Europe should not be entirely peaceful for years to come.

We and the Germans are blood-kindred, and, as Herr Hitler remarked to me, our nations have fought each other only once—though in many campaigns they have been faithful allies. The German Chancellor repeatedly expressed in our conversations his fervent desire for a complete Anglo-German understanding, which he regards as a sure road to peace.

If Germany and Britain, alienated for over 20 years, could thus come once more together, a new era of well-being would open before both of us.

There will never be a better opportunity than now, when all the forces and energies of that splendid nation are held in one strong grasp.
Could we but bring about this better feeling between the two countries in 1935, the coming year would be one of the most fortunate in the memory of mankind.

RACE TRAINING TIMES

HEROD RUNS FULL DERBY DISTANCE IN MOST CONVINCING STYLE

PACIFIC HALL AND MISTAKE BAY

By covering the full Derby distance in 3.18 minutes with a last quarter of 32 seconds, the Herod stable's Herod gained many supporters in the training on Saturday morning. The last mile was done in 2.08 and the last six furlongs in 1.33.3, which is the best performance by any 1935 griffin so far.

The Dunbar stable's Mistake Bay was sent over the medium distance and finished well under 31 seconds, his last mile being done in 2.12.3 and the last six furlongs 1.37. Other impressive griffins were Pacific Hall, Pontiac Bay, Twenty Grand, Ythan, Soldier of Victory, Diogenes and Estover. Soldier of Victory confirmed the rumours that he is the best griffin in Mr. L. Shu-pang's string of Derby candidates by doing the mile in 2.16.2 and last quarter in 30 seconds.

Among the Australian ponies, The Maori and Vixen Tor ran together over the mile in 2.02.4, finishing the last bit in 27 seconds. Snowy River and Streamline both appeared to be in good form at the moment and with more experience in training should show up well on February 16. Cold Morning and Lady Whitta showed improved form. Full details of the other gallops appear below:

KOWLOON COLLISION

CAR AND MILITARY LORRY INVOLVED

As a result of her car, No. 2469, being involved in a collision with motor lorry No. 8889, on a blind corner on Reservoir Hill, Kowloon, on Saturday afternoon, Miss Ann Dodwell, the local lady rider, suffered a cut on her face, caused when the windscreen splintered.

Fortunately the injury was a slight one.
The car received damage to the mudguard, door, running board, hood and windscreen while the lorry was damaged in the rear.
The lorry belonged to the Hongkong Signal Station, Whitfield Barracks, and was being driven at the time of the accident by Private D.
Thomson, down Reservoir Hill towards Kowloon.
The accident was reported to the Mong Kok Police Station by

DICTATORSHIPS

The prison sentences recently imposed on M. Zinovieff and M. Kamenev, for plotting against the Stalin regime, is further proof of the fact that dictators brook no rivals. These two men and those associated with them may or may not have merited punishment for treasonable activities, but, that point aside, it is clear that there is no room in Russia to-day for political thoughts which run contrary to the ideas of the Soviet leaders. Democratic sentiment has no more opportunity of expression than it had under the old Czarist regime. When we come to look at the three great dictatorships of the world to-day—Russian, Italian and German—we see that only that of Signor Mussolini seems to have passed beyond the phase when repeated "purges" are deemed to be necessary to preserve the system. In the case of Russia, the recent "purge" is only one in a long succession of such events, and it will not be by any means the last. The Soviet system has travelled far since the days when Lenin and Trotsky were held to be the true-red exponents of the Communist creed. Lenin, had he lived, would indeed have been fortunate had he maintained his pre-eminence through all the vicissitudes and the emergence of rival personalities that have marked the intervening years. Being dead, he can be given a show-place mausoleum without harm to the cause. Zinovieff and his co-plotters have now been removed from the stage. In the evolution of Sovietism, some have gone this way and some that. It was too much to expect that all would develop along precisely the same lines. But the governing hand is still Stalin's, as the latest batch for banishment have been forcibly reminded. Which brings us back to the point that there is no room for more than one dictator in a country at a time. Those who would usurp the seat of supreme authority, and have not the support of the machine in seeking to realise their ambitions, must go to the wall. They may represent, in their views, a considerable body of political opinion; that is neither here nor there. They may even seek to spread their ideas through what, in truly democratic countries, would be regarded as constitutional measures: that does not matter, either. It is enough that they dare to differ from those who have seized the reins of dictatorship. Fortunately indeed are the peoples who enjoy the priceless possessions of liberty of thought and speech.

NOTES OF THE DAY

CANADA'S BENEFITS

It can hardly be believed—that some believe that the Imperial Trade Agreements are satisfactory to no one. We know that there is such a thing as political exaggeration in language, but anyone connected with the business world, must admit that the benefits from Imperial Trade agreements are very real. It is true some of the agreements might be amended in some particulars. They have, however, added too substantially to Canada's trade to permit of their cancellation without an aroused public opinion, in the opinion of business men from Atlantic to Pacific. Where the Imperial Trade Agreements are concerned the proof of the pudding is in the eating. Canada, under their aegis, has made gains in fifteen agricultural products exported to the British market in one year's operation of the trade pacts. Here is the table:

	1932	1933
Wheat	$65,802,616	$70,634,499
Fresh apples	5,539,840	10,041,448
Oranges	6,902,921	8,422,743
Tobacco	2,000,000	8,880,000
Wool, short, midd.	171,700	1,226,559
Wool, long	1,751,281	3,430,212
Wool, fine	28,224	240,878
Poultry	28,770	100,878
Fresh pork	73,184	174,018
Flour	184,601	268,938
Flax seed	37,491	62,441
Honey	9,686	39,947
Flax seed	8,474	28,325
Dried apples	4,876	19,742
Hops	200	11,255
Animals
Totals	$91,900,000	$107,632,269
Increase		$15,732,269

So far as the export of manufactured articles goes, Canada has also benefited. Where figures such as the foregoing are concerned there should be no question of partisan politics. They appeal to both agriculturists and industrial workers. They have, in effect, brought many millions of dollars of added income to the Dominion. Moreover, they have instilled anew in the economic field a policy of Imperial co-operation which is having very beneficial results.

MORALE AMONG WORKLESS

A patched coat is a symbol of self-respect. Some garments have empty pockets because of inexcusable holes in them, due to the fact that the wearer is poor. According to the Christian Science Monitor, the American people, who have nineteen million persons on the relief rolls, are beginning to show some impatience with the attitude of some of their fellow-citizens who neglect, or defiantly refuse, to discharge such obligations to their communities as they are quite capable of discharging. In the opinion of this Boston newspaper, as well known for its broad and sympathetic treatment of social problems, the raising of relief funds either through voluntary contributions or taxation does not depend entirely upon sympathetic sentiments towards the unemployed. Sympathy is indeed an important factor, but by no means the only one. Another factor is the belief, or faith, that public relief is helping the community and not simply harming the recipients; and accordingly a demand is being made that individual merits, character, and self-respect shall in future play a larger part in solving the plight of the workless. The vast majority of the workless are deserving of every sympathy and consideration. The disturbing feature of the situation is that the shiftlessness of one fraction and the calculated insolence of another combine to undermine the system of public and private relief for the deserving.

SOCIALISTIC TEXT-BOOKS

The London Labour Party, which achieved very notable successes in the recent municipal elections in England, is appointing a committee to examine and report on all text-books used in the schools of London. Particular attention will be given to any "militaristic, patriotic or faith" that public relief is helping the community and not simply harming the recipients; and accordingly a demand is being made that individual merits, character, and self-respect shall in future play a larger part in solving the plight of the workless. The vast majority of the workless are deserving of every sympathy and consideration. The disturbing feature of the situation is that the shiftlessness of one fraction and the calculated insolence of another combine to undermine the system of public and private relief for the deserving.

GERMANY ON HER FEET AGAIN

In the Daily Mail

Munich, Christmas Eve.
MIRACLES are done by faith. The Germans have found a new and potent faith. It has wrought the miracle of removing the mountains of difficulty that barred their way to national recovery.

But it has accomplished even more. It has given Germany a new soul. The last two years have witnessed here a political process as profound and far-reaching in its effects as the great French Revolution.

Such a change in the character of a nation, in its internal conditions, its international standing, even in the very bearing of its people, has never before in history been achieved within so short a time.

I warn my fellow-countrymen that Germany has set a new pace of human endeavour. She has acquired a national momentum without precedent in political dynamics.

Germany is the new Sparta. The same spirit of national discipline and self-sacrifice which earned for the few thousand inhabitants of a small Greek city-state an enduring place in history is being reproduced here by 67,000,000 of what are in some ways the most intelligent, industrious, high-spirited, and hardy people in the world.

None among them is more Spartan than the Head of the State himself. Herr Hitler neither drinks, smokes, nor eats meat. His daily fare is as simple as that of the humblest working-class family in Germany.

Encouraged by his example, the young Germans of to-day have improved themselves by 30 per cent. in physique and set for work above what was already their high national standard. When a whole generation has grown up under the Nazi system Germany will have become a nation of something like super-men.

By what force has this land been lifted from a despondent, discouraged, disregarded condition to its old place in the front rank of the Great Powers?

What magic has restored hope to German hearts, given to German eyes the flash of courage and self-confidence, and magnetised this mighty nation until one feels in its midst as if one were in a gigantic power-house?

"HITLER."

That is the whole answer. Without Hitler none of this would have happened. With Hitler no limits can be set to the developments in Germany that may yet surprise the world.

During the past week I have had several opportunities of talking and listening to this unique leader of his fellow-countrymen—not only in the formal atmosphere of the Chancellery's office but beside a glowing log-fire after luncheon as the short winter afternoon faded into darkness, or in the spacious but simple suite of public rooms at the Chancellery, decorated to his own quiet taste, where he entertained myself and some of his more intimate collaborators to an after-dinner concert of that German music which is his only relaxation.

There is something in Hitler's personality which photographs him instantaneously and indelibly upon the mind. His eyes have remarkable power of magnetism; his low-pitched voice is eloquent and persuasive. But behind these external attributes of a man who has already made so profound a mark on the modern history of Europe, one feels, in talking with him, the force of his own conviction that he is fulfilling a predestined task—the task of setting Germany on her feet again.

Hitler's severest critic would scarcely deny that in this task he has already won a very great measure of success. The united, self-confident Germany of January 1935 can no more be compared with the distracted, unhappy Germany that he found on taking power in January 1933 than a soaring eagle can be likened to the broken egg-shell from which it came.

Anyone who visits Germany can see for himself the concrete results of the Hitler regime. I will mention below a few of the most outstanding. But his greatest feat cannot be expressed in words or set forth in statistics—it is the re-kindling of the soul of the German people.

After less than two years of his administration the following results stand to Herr Hitler's credit:—

1. German unemployment on the day he took office numbered 6,014,000. On November 30 this year they were 2,354,000.

2. National and municipal budgets have been restored from ruin to solvency. The Finance Minister recently stated that revenue had increased by more than £80,000,000, while expenditure was down by over £100,000,000, showing an improvement in the national position amounting to £200,000,000 a year in all.

3. For the past two months Germany has had a favourable balance on her international trading. Despite exchange difficulties, her exports for the present year stand at 85 per cent. of the value of our own.

4. The Germans are fast making themselves independent of foreign raw materials. They can now produce artificial rubber at no more than twice the present low price of the natural commodity. Hundreds of research chemists are working at the development of artificial cotton and wool. They are not foot on a clue which may lead to the discovery of a completely satisfactory substitute for tin at one-tenth of its cost.

5. Two hundred and fifty thousand young men are in Voluntary Labour Corps, benefiting from the finest imaginable physical and social discipline. These are adding largely to the real estate values of Germany. In two years 350,000 acres of marsh and waste land have been reclaimed by their efforts.

6. One thousand four hundred miles of the finest motor-roads in the world are nearing completion, giving well-paid employment to 94,000 men directly and 110,000 indirectly; 4,000 miles of such roads are planned.

7. Such a spirit of national solidarity has been created that during the past two months an immense sum in cash has been collected to help the poor this winter, while gifts in kind to an equal value have been contributed. The Sunday I spent in Berlin was a monthly "One Dish Day," on which I shared a single-course luncheon with Herr

The Very Idea!

ANOTHER WEAK END
By George

MONDAY again! We are so tired that we only put in the exclamation mark to fill up space. Monday is the day we have to tie up our weak end in an endeavour to keep sparking on all fours until Saturday.

The tying-up process usually lasts six days so it's really a case of making ends meet. Unfortunately there's a fresh beginning to each end so really there's no end at all—except to keep up.

In this frame of mind it is discouraging to read these constant challenges between our local fighting men. We see that following an account of the Prandy-Deo fight in which poor Deo got a thorough beating-up, somebody also wants to have a wallop at the victim—winner take all.

It's that last clause that saves us from any appearances in the ring. In response to the challenges of our irate readers we always accept with this little saving stipulation. Further enquiries then reveal to the challenger that he would take all the glory and a pile of debts.

But returning to the week-end subject, which was also a wet end, reminds us of our car ride with the girl. She was quite willing to come for once in a while—a sort of auto-suggestion on our part—but things were just the same between us. The only change we noticed was the gear work and that was synchro-mess.

We are thinking now of buying a yacht or something which has fewer dangerous curves than motor-ing and gives more opportunities for enjoying the scenery.

What Courts?

April 10th, 1932.

To a Gas Co.

Dear Sir:

I have just received another of your merry little form letters telling me that I owe you $4.08. Now, it might be a good idea for your folks in the Claim Department to have a little get-together with the good people of your Bookkeeping Department, and find out whether some of your bills are paid.

I can understand how you feel about it—that paying bills is old-fashioned. But you never can tell! There just could be a person every now and then who, in a sentimental moment about the good old days, actually does write a cheque for a bill of yours.

You may well wonder why I have not answered your various notes of the last ten weeks. Well, I just love a lot of mail. It so cheers me to know people think of me.

I have a confession to make. Your last couple of letters sounded a bit impatient. They threatened to take drastic measures for my not paying the bill I paid ten weeks ago! The last letter gave me quite an inspiration; I decided to let you sue me and then to enter counter suit. Just play a sort of jolly game—first you sue me, then I sue you. I thought it would be such fun.

But alas! The delightful prospect of being sued and suing you was only too short-lived. My brother-in-law, a lawyer who always manages to take the joy of my bright ideas, said it couldn't be done. He said you wouldn't sue me for $4.08 (as if such an amount is to be sneezed at these days); that a Lady doesn't appear in the Municipal Court. Now there's nothing left for me to do but get hold of a book of etiquette to find out what courts a Lady may appear in.

Very truly yours,
Frances M. Anderson.

U.S. Financial Outlook

MORE LOANS IN INDUSTRY

Washington, Jan. 22. The following is the forecast of events in the American economic sphere:

Holding company legislation will be enacted, probably against all businesses including utilities, and possibly some investment trusts.

Federal incorporation for interstate business will make progress but will not be enacted.

A $4,800,000,000 Public Works bill will be enacted with President Roosevelt having full discretion. Old age pensions and unemployment revision.

A new R.F.C. Bill will pass within the week, which includes a more liberal policy on direct loans for industry and broad powers for railroad loans possibly allowing the purchase of depreciated railroad bonds by the railroads in order to save interest.

Unified Government regulation of all commerce commissions is likely. Electrical equipment, plumbing and air conditioning companies will benefit by R.F.C. loans.

The Supreme Court decision on the Gold Clause Case will probably come on February 4.

It is believed that the Economic Security Bill, which as written, would increase the Federal debt by fifty per cent., will be revised. Important changes in the banking laws are likely. A compulsory consolidation of the railroads is forecast.

The Communications Commission's report suggests the regulation of telegraph companies. No final action on telephone companies is contemplated until after a comprehensive valuation study.

A Bill will be introduced with President Roosevelt's support extending the Bankhead Cotton Control Act for another year. The present N.I.R.A. is likely to be extended.—Swan, Culbertson and Fritz.

Soong Staying In China

POSSIBLE TALKS ON SILVER PROBLEM

Shanghai, Jan. 26. Interviewed by the Chinese Press here to-day, Mr. T. V. Soong, former Finance Minister, stated that he has no intention of leaving China.

He said that the Ministry of Finance had considered sending someone to the United States to discuss the silver problem, but he was unable to say what decision had been reached.

Mr. Soong said that he had no comment whatever to make on the local financial situation.—United Press.

LOCAL ESTATES

GRANTS OF LETTERS OF ADMINISTRATION

Gregoria Tolentino, late of Manila, who died on November 9, left local estate valued at $9,500, letters of administration to which have been granted to Mr. G. G. N. Tinson for the use and benefit of Adelaida Tolentino.

Local estate valued at $100 was left by Hector Maria Remedios, of No. 2, Granville Road, Kowloon, who died on October 22, at St. Paul's Hospital. Letters of Administration have been granted to the father, Mr. P. M. Remedios, of the same address.

Ho Hong-man, alias Ho Yee-keo, retired merchant of Nga Yim Village Kwangtung, who died on September 6, 1934, left local estate of $26,700, letters of administration to which have been granted to Ho Fook-shu, student of 118, Wellington Street, Hongkong.

DRIZZLE OR MIST

The anticyclone remains over China and Manchuria, but has decreased moderately in intensity. A depression is situated to the north-west of Guam. Local forecast:—N.E. winds, moderate to fresh; overcast, some drizzle or mist.

The Hongkong University Medical Society will give a farewell tea-party to Dr. D. K. Samy on Friday, February 1, in the Union Assembly Room of the University Union at 6 p.m. Members and friends are cordially invited.

SHAI MARKET REPORT

FOREIGN EXCHANGE VERY FIRM

(Special to "Telegraph")

Shanghai, Jan. 28. The Foreign Exchange Market is very firm here at 10 a.m. this morning.

The firmness is apparently due solely to the continued tightness of cash.

Forward rates are not materially changed from the close of business on Saturday.

The market was still very firm at 11.30 a.m.

Forward rates, however, are still lagging far behind cash.

The United States dollar rate for February is up 1/16 whereas cash is up 3/8 from Saturday's close.

The difference between cash and January rates works out at approximately 23 per cent. per annum, which some banks have paid here this morning.

Bankers are very surprised that the equalisation rate remains at only 6 per cent., which is the equivalent of 1/5.875 pence.

The market showed an even firmer tendency at 12.30 p.m., but trading is without any special feature.

H.M.S. FALMOUTH

TO RE-COMMISSION AT SINGAPORE

H.M.S. Falmouth, the armed yacht of His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, Admiral Sir Frederic C. Dreyer, left port this morning for Sarawak flying her paying-off pennant. She will stay in Brunei Bay for a few days and will then proceed to Singapore where she will re-commission, details for the warship arriving in the southern port on board the troopship Somersetshire.

The following officers will take over duty at Singapore:—Surg. Lieut. J. E. Davenport, Lieut. A. C. Poe, Lieut. R. H. Maurice, and Sub. Lieut. R. A. Hunting.

IMPROVING CHINA'S INCOME

MORE MONEY FROM SALT FIELD

Nanking, Jan. 28. It is officially announced that as a result of the improvement of the Chinese gabelle system, revenue derived from this source last year showed a great increase.

For instance, salt revenue in the Changlo Division alone was increased by well over $3,000,000.

The Chinese Gabelle Administration is taking steps toward improving the salt fields and by this means hopes to further increase production.—Central News.

DAY BY DAY NEWS IN BRIEF

THE WORLD IS GOVERNED ONLY BY SELF-INTEREST.—Schiller.

The Hongkong Telegraph has received a sum of $5 from Mr. L. E. N. Ryan for the Hongkong Benevolent Society, in memory of the late Mr. J. D. Lloyd.

Mr. Percy Comery and Miss Evelyn Maud Judson Gulston were married at St. John's Cathedral last Thursday at noon. Miss Gulston, who was formerly a school-mistress at Home, arrived here that morning by the P. and O. steamer Rajputana. Mr. Comery, who is well-known in Shanghai, formerly resided at 23, Jessfield Road, Shanghai.

Two coolies, Lo Lam, aged 29, and Luk Sing, aged 31, appeared before Mr. E. W. Hamilton at the Kowloon Magistrate's Court on a charge of stealing a Chinese long coat, two scarves from 143 Portland Street, on January 26 and also on a charge of receiving. The first defendant pleaded guilty and was sentenced to the months' hard labour. Owing to the lack of evidence against him, the second defendant was discharged. Chan Ng, aged 37, a widow, appeared as complainant.

Kwon Fo, 30, a cloth repairer, was brought before Mr. Wynne-Jones in the Central Magistrate's Court this morning charged with the unlawful pawning of two ladies' overcoats, valued at $90. He pleaded guilty to the charge. Detective-Sergeant Baldwin told the Court that defendant returned the two coats to the complainant and pawn tickets to the complainant's pawn shop. The coats were returned to their rightful owners. Defendant also stated in his letter that he had been ordered by the Government to have the Colony but did not have enough money, so he pawned the coats which had been given to him by the complainant to repair. He obtained $16 as a result of the pawning but did not use the money to leave the Colony.

Controlling Utilities

LEGISLATION SOUGHT

(Special to "Telegraph")

Washington, Jan. 26. The Federal Trade Commission, culminating a six year investigation of gas and electric utility companies, has prepared a programme to correct the alleged evils of operation of such firms, which will be paid before the Senate.

The programme which has been formulated to curtail the powers of holding companies, consists of the following recommendations:

Firstly, heavy Federal taxation of holding companies and all the profits thereof.

Secondly, direct statutory prohibition, additional utility operation by holding companies.

Fourthly, the enactment of a Federal Permissive Incorporation Act.—United Press.

Fluctuation In Currency

NANKING WARNING TO HANKOW

Nanking, Jan. 27.

With reference to the Hankow Chamber of Commerce's petition to the Government for relief in the situation created by the recent depreciation of Shanghai banknotes, the Ministry of Finance to-day sent a message to the Hupeh provincial authorities.

The message stated that the fluctuations in currency values were entirely due to commercial factors, and warns the authorities against the unauthorised issuance of banknote in Hankow.—United Press.

SHANGHAI SLUMP

Shanghai, Jan. 28. With the approaching Chinese New Year annual settlement among Chinese firms and banks, the trade depression here is becoming more evident. Chinese bankers declare that about fifty per cent. of the Chinese firms have failed to meet their short term loan commitments during the year. Since the beginning of the winter, over three hundred business failures have been registered in Shanghai.

An agreement has been reached between prominent Shanghai Chinese banks and the Shanghai Construction Bureau, whereby the bankers have consented to invest $800,000 for industrial development in Shanghai. Conferences with the representatives of the Shanghai Construction Bureau have just ended.

Attractive Chinese calendars are to hand from the Central Agency, Ltd.

At to-morrow's meeting of the Rotary Club an address on "Progress in Modern Building Construction" will be given by Lt.-Col. M. H. Logan.

To-day is the last day of the extended exhibition of the works of Mr. T. F. Lee, the noted artist. There was a big attendance at the showing yesterday, in the premises of the Chung Sing Benevolent Society, No. 188 Des Voeux Road Central, third floor. The exhibits were greatly admired. Mr. Lee is leaving for North China on a pleasure trip.

Lui Kai, aged 32, unemployed, was sentenced to three months' hard labour by Mr. E. W. Hamilton, when he appeared at the Kowloon Magistrate's Court on a charge of burglary and stealing over $100 worth of jewellery and other miscellaneous articles on January 25, from 34 Parko Street. Detective-Sergeant Allen stated that defendant was arrested trying to pawn a leather suitcase which he had stolen. The complainants were Wai Yung-kong, aged 32, a merchant, Ng Lai-man, aged 27, a married woman, and Leung Chan, aged 52, a widow.

Chan Chan, aged 30, married woman, was sentenced to four months' hard labour by Mr. E. W. Hamilton at the Kowloon Magistrate's Court this morning, when she pleaded guilty to the theft of a jacket and two pairs of trousers, on January 27, and with unlawfully pawning the clothing. It was alleged that the complainants, Kwok Chun, a married woman, and Kwok Chun, a widow, allowed the defendant to stop with them at 94 Woosung Street, for a night, and when they woke up next morning she had gone. Later she was seen by one of the complainant's daughters in Wing Lok Street and was arrested. The defendant had three previous convictions.

SQUARE DEALERS ORGANISE

RISE AGAINST SENATOR LONG

Baton Rouge, Jan. 27. Additional troops have been moved into this city where the situation has grown extremely tense following the uprising against the "autocratic" administration of Senator H. (Kingfish) Long.

All State buildings are heavily guarded and patrols are constantly parading the streets.

The Leader of the "Insurrectionists," who is called the President of the Square Dealers Association, is reported to have disappeared.—Reuter.

The Square Dealers armed themselves with shotguns, threatening violence unless Senator Long, and his political henchmen, would agree to their demands for reform. He had dispersed when they were promised a hearing. Since then martial law has been declared.

SHANGHAI'S REMEMBRANCE

HONOUR FOR SOLDIERS WHO GAVE LIVES

Shanghai, Jan. 28. All Chinese national flags are flying at half-mast to-day in the Chinese City, the International Settlement and the French Concession, in commemoration of the third anniversary of the Shanghai trouble.

The local Kuomintang is holding a memorial meeting, attended by over a thousand representatives of various organisations and schools.

Precautionary measures are being taken by the Shanghai and Woosung Garrison Headquarters to prevent disturbance by radical elements.—Reuter.

BREATHE-IN-THE-CURE

How Respiroids Banish Coughs, Sore Throat and Colds.

Most sore throats, coughs and colds could be avoided, or, at least, quickly checked at the start. One of the most effective ways is by the use of Respiroids. These lozenges act directly upon the respiratory system, and are therefore superior to liquid remedies which are immediately swallowed. As they dissolve slowly in the mouth aromatic curative vapours are given off which circulate through the throat, nasal passages and lungs.

Respiroids are convenient for the pocket, and a lozenge taken at intervals forms a pleasant, permanent safeguard. Obtainable at chemists, or post free 75 cents per bottle from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 451 Kiangse Road, Shanghai.

POWERFUL INTERPORT FOOTBALL TEAM CHOSEN

NAVY COULD HAVE SAVED THE GAME

LOSES SENIOR SHIELD TIE
Wong's Form

(By L. S. B.)

During the first quarter of an hour at Caroline Hill on Saturday it seemed that South China "A" were going to have things all their own way, but later the Navy recovered and the rest of the match was a hard fought battle between two almost equal teams.

It was mainly due to missed opportunities that the Navy failed to draw level in the second half and were beaten by three goals to two. South China owed a lot to the forwards, and particularly Fung King-cheung, despite their disadvantage of having to accommodate themselves to a wet and heavy field.

No doubt the best individual Chinese player on view was Wong Mee-shun, who was always too good for West and Li Tin-sang, who countered the Navy attacks with supreme confidence. Wong showed his ability early in the game and immediately after the start only just failed to get past Pepper; shortly afterwards he sent over a good cross kick and Tam Kong-pak netted. Pepper during the very trying first few minutes for the Navy played well, but on the whole did not equal Wong Wing, whose handling of the wet ball was masterly.

Early in the second half Skinner received from Cannell and beat Wong with a fine shot. South China, again mainly owing to Wong Mee-shun, regained the lead, however, Tam Kong-pak doing the needful. The Navy fought hard for the rest of the game and Cannell netted again by converting Skinner's shot which had already beaten Wong Wing.

Shanghai Interport Team Has Practice Match

Shanghai, Jan. 26. Shanghai's soccer Interports defeated a side composed of Police footballers together with the Interport reserves by five goals to three, in an unimpressive practice match to-day.

It is announced that J. Shute will be able to make the trip to Hongkong.

Rycroft and West were outstanding for the Navy. Skinner and Cannell were hard-working, but rather luckless attackers. The teams were—

South China "A": Wong Wing; Li Tin-sang; Lau Mau; Leung In-chun; Leung Wing-shui; Lee Kwok-wai; Tso Kwai-shing; Wong Mee-shun; Fung King-cheung; Tam Kong-pak; Leung In-chun.

Navy:—Pepper; Rycroft; West; Pyatt; McGuire; Love; Roberts; Cousins; Craig; Cannell; Skinner.

CHINESE UPSET POPULAR IDEA

(By "Veritas")

HONGKONG football has been developed so much on hard and dry grounds, that when other conditions prevail, one automatically expects to see them have a considerably deterrent effect on the standard of the game. Yet, although the weather was wretched throughout the week-end, creating bad ground surfaces, the football remained remarkably good.

It was especially so in the Shield encounters. At Caroline Hill, South China and the Navy gave an extremely attractive display on the Club ground Chinese Athletic were at times positively brilliant against the Recreio, while at Kowloon, the Police showed markedly good form.

It was something rather new to see the Chinese overcome adverse conditions. Usually they find their lack of weight such a telling factor on heavy grounds, that they lose their equilibrium and degenerate into very second class footballers.

BUT on Saturday both South China and the Athletic revealed hidden resourcefulness and adaptability. Admittedly the Club ground was in better condition than Caroline Hill yet surfaces on both grounds were treacherous and confusing. Ball control was difficult, and so far as the Chinese were concerned the only controlling factor was that conditions demanded the close inter-passing form of attack.

THE elimination of the Recreio was the one big "shock" result of the week-end. It was defeat, suffered only after very fine play by both sides. The Athletic were inspired after the interval, and no better goal has been scored this season than Ho Ka-keung's second point which put the Athletic into the semi-final.

TSO Ah-fai was the man of the match. He ruined Bernie Gosano in the first half, and when A. V. Gosano moved up to the attack later on, also obtained the full measure of him. Ho Ka-keung and Chan Chan-woo were two sparkling forwards, drawing out the best from A. V. Gosano, when that player was at full back.

LOCAL FOOTBALL FIXTURES

INTERPORT CAUSES RE-ARRANGEMENTS

The Hon. Secretary of the Hongkong Football Association announces that owing to the visit of the Shanghai soccer team to the Colony, the fixtures arranged for February 2 and 3 have been postponed until 9 and 10. Grounds and time of kick off will be as stated in the fixture list for 2 and 3. Matches for 2nd, to be played on 9th. Matches for 3rd, to be played on 10th.

THE Recreio seemed upset by being unable to include "A.V." in the attack, and were not so impressive against South China. The bottling up of Bernie Gosano made a lot of difference to the attack, neither Gomes nor Alves giving of their best.

CHINESE Athletic have recorded no better deserved victory this season. The return of Tso Ah-fai seemed to make all the difference, and if the Athletic could only play the same combination regularly, they would figure as one of the Colony's best teams to-day.

AT Kowloon, the Police repeated their previous week's success over Kowloon, only this time more decisively and more worthily.

THERE was real snap in the attack, and a soundness in defence which defied all the hard efforts of Jones and Elliott. In addition to which the Athletic adopted the paying policy of keeping the ball freely in circulation.

KOWLOON was disoriented in defence, the halves failing to render adequate support. Morrison revelled in the fight and played a typical game, continually spoliating the dangerous-looking Police attacks single handed.

THE sustained interest in the game shown by the spectators was a tribute to the performance of the players under miserable conditions.

SURPRISES were not absent from the few League matches played. St. Joseph's, minus the services of Elma fell down with a crash before the Fusiliers, who showed something of that which had gained them such an enviable reputation in Gibraltar. The Saints were completely outshone. Dennis led the soldiers' attack with skill, and the team all round revealed vast improvement on previous showings.

IN the second division, the Club upset prognostications by beating the Royal Artillery in a poor and spiritless game. The Artillery did everything but score, and the Club were equally as bad until Duncan was given a penalty. The result was all against the run of the play. Neither team deserved to win.

MacNider's Hole-In-One Record

FIRST TIME EVER AT K.G.C.

S. MacNider, the local golf and hockey player, performed the feat of holing in one for the first time in the history of the Kowloon Golf Club on Saturday afternoon.

Playing in a friendly match against A. J. Dennis on the Club green at Kowloon City, MacNider holed in one on the fourth, known as "The Rockies." Using a No. 2 iron, he drove the ball the full distance of 155 yards from the tee on the third hole.

In spite of this remarkable feat, MacNider lost the match.

Commencing golf in 1931, MacNider showed much promise and in 1932 won the Fear Cup, defeating the holder Dr. J. E. H. Cogan. In 1933, partnered by H. Hampton, he won the Kowloon Golf Club "Hong" Foursomes. This year he has qualified for the Captain's Cup competition.

S. MacNider, this remarkable feat, MacNider lost the match.

INTERPORT TRIAL SATISFIES

ALBERT HOWE COMES INTO HIS OWN

A. V. GOSANO PROVES HIMSELF AN IDEAL RIGHT HALF

For the first time in several years a really satisfactory final Interport football trial was played yesterday, and this despite contrary elements, and the absence of several of the originally selected players. The selectors must have left gratified in having their task made so much easier, and it was not surprising to find them announce their final team immediately after the game.

The result in terms of goals was quite inconsequential. In fact, although the Whites won by the odd goal in seven, a draw with have been a more admirable and correct finish. Briefly the Whites' attacking machine was slightly more efficient than the Blues', while the latter held the balance in defence.

The heavy state of the ground gave rise to a feeling before the start of the game, that good football would be somewhat out of the question, but both teams adapted themselves well to the conditions, serving up fast and exciting exchanges.

PLAY THEMSELVES INTO TEAM

Chris Pile, A. V. Gosano, Tam Kong-pak and Albert Howe played themselves into the Interport side, all four doing splendidly. Pile was a tower of strength in the Blues' rear-guard, and A. V. Gosano masterly at right half, holding the Tay Quan-Hing-Baldry combination with ease. His constructive work was as usual polished, and whatever doubts there might have been concerning his ability to take over the right half position, were completely dispelled.

Tam Kong-pak seems to be improving in every match and he is easily Hongkong's most consistent goal-scorer. He was clever and mighty resourceful in front of goal yesterday, and as has been consistently claimed, in these columns, is to-day the best inside right in the Colony.

The resuscitation of Howe was gratifying, and although not quite the stylist of Fung King-cheung, he is without argument, one of the most effective and efficient centre-forwards in local football. Yesterday he was able to use his famous body-averse to fullest advantage, and when the Blues were on the attack, Howe was always prominent.

RIDLEY RECOVERS

Not by any means at his best, yet without playing a good average game, H. Gosano gave the impression that he had played himself into the Interport side. This was further emphasised by the absence of Tso Kwai-shing.

Dick Ridley recaptured some of his true form, and did not find the ground hamper his footwork so much as might have been expected. In this respect he was assisted by his weight. Definitely it was an improved Ridley on the man who figured in the first trial.

Bleekford, quietly and without flourish, accomplished a nice afternoon's work, and there is no gainsaying that he is playing better football now than ever before. He rarely wasted a pass, and was tricky in the hargain, fully competent to outwit Peneghan when occasion demanded.

PARKER SEIZES OPPORTUNITY

The absence of Lee Kwok-wai gave Parker his big chance, and the Policeman seized it with both hands, playing magnificently at left half for the Whites. His fine positioning and anticipation allowed him to thwart the right wing machinations time and again. He also seemed to gain confidence in the knowledge that his club-mate Pile was behind him.

Pardoe played his customary apologetic game, and worked unceasingly. The only thing about Pardoe which needs serious improvement is his headwork. He is still prone to take the ball on the top of his head, instead of the forehead. But his ground passes were splendidly accurate and timed, and he has few equals in the Colony for dogged tackling.

SOME OF THE OTHERS

Wong Wing emphasised his claims as the best custodian we have, but George Rodger came a good second, and it is most comforting to know the Colony has such a brilliant reserve goalkeeper.

Higgins, although again forceful and very willing, was not so impressive as in the last trial. He lacked the finesse and finish of his rival Tam, preferring rush tactics which were rather easily countered by the indomitable Pile and his companions.

Sydney Strange was a tower of strength in the Whites' defence, and Swaine rendered fine support. Elliott again showed he was on the borderline for Interport honours, and but for the worklessness of other players, would have made the team this year. Here again the Colony is fortunate in boasting such a fine reserve forward.

On the whole, however, there was so little to choose between the individual merits of the players, that it was clear the final selections would see very few changes from the Probable eleven. The few players who needed only a satisfying display to make their positions certain came up to scratch, and almost anybody could have forecast the selectors' decisions at the end of the game.

THE GOALS

Tam Kong-pak (from a penalty) and Elliott gave the Whites a lead of two clear goals at the interval, but Howe reduced this with a fine shot shortly after the resumption. Tam got away to score his second before Howe did the needful again. Then Elliott broke through in masterly fashion to beat Wong Wing, and before the close Howe gave Ridley a "gift", which the Lincolns man gratefully accepted. The Blues finished very strongly and had all the game in the last ten minutes.

NOT A WEAKNESS

TSO PREFERRED

PARKER IN

(By "Veritas").

The Hongkong Interport football selectors have done their task, and done it well. The announcement yesterday of the team to represent the Colony against Shanghai next Saturday created no real surprise. The only startling choice (if it can be put as high as that) was the preference of Tso Kwai-shing for Bernie Gosano on the right wing.

Judged on his form a week ago, and the fact that he played well yesterday I thought Gosano would more or less walk into the team. There is really so little to choose between Gosano and Tso. Indications were, that in making a comparison between the two in the first trial, and the fact that the selectors had no chance of judging the Chinese yesterday, one had to give Gosano the position.

A POWERFUL TEAM

The selectors have differed, but have not necessarily done the wrong thing. Tso is a fine player, and it is likely that he will make a better right wing with Tam Kong-pak than would Gosano. In fact it would appear the inclusion of Tam (which one felt all along was inevitable) automatically demanded the inclusion of Tso.

Hongkong will be fielding a powerful team next Saturday, a team well-balanced and with not the slightest hint of weakness in any department.

The half back line is especially noteworthy. Parker deservedly secures his place. Even if he had not played as well as he did yesterday, the selectors would still have been wise in choosing him, as Lee Kwok-wai, although possibly the better of the two, is suffering from the effects of a nasty kick, and, as I emphasised the other day, physical fitness is just as necessary as football skill.

"I THINK WE SHALL WIN"

The Colony can approach this Interport with supreme confidence. There is no necessity to underestimate Shanghai; it would be suicidal to do so; but the Hongkong team is one of the best turned out for several years, and there is such an abundance of talent in reserve, that if anything should happen to prevent the side from appearing as advertised, all positions can be adequately filled.

The selectors have picked a complete team of reserves, and that team could go out to-day and give the Interport eleven a magnificent game.

In fact, all we have to do now, is to sit back and wait contentedly for next Saturday. If our players give of their best I am sure they will win.

Inter-Club Tennis At The K.C.C.

(By "Veritas")

Although the weather did its best to ruin the visit of the Tungshan Tennis Club to the Kowloon Cricket Club during the week-end, it succeeded only in curtailing the programme of matches. The other features of the event, congenial social companionship and merry-making were retained in full, and a particularly enjoyable time was spent by the players and their friends.

The persistent rain on Saturday and the dreary conditions yesterday failed to damp the ardour of the contestants for tennis, and altogether nearly thirty matches were played. Although the state of the courts made playing extremely difficult, the players showed remarkably good form, and several matches of unusual interest were enjoyed.

The K.C.C. ladies were again prominent, winning four out of five events. Tungshan scored in the women's doubles and easily held their own in the singles. The final

"Meo Periculo" Cricket Controversy

Sports Editor
Hongkong Telegraph

Sir, Permit me to give a point of view of the cricket controversy. In a way "Meo Periculo" is justified in writing, but perhaps rather than air his grievances he should have "lumped it". There is now, still, a "row" going on in cricket in England in which the highest circles are involved. Why risk a similar state of affairs being attained here? To me, this question has nothing to do with the players or the clubs, but when writers get worked up and begin anathematizing one another differences of opinion will be caused which may reflect on the spirit of the game on the field.

So much for "Meo Periculo." While sympathizing with him I think he would have done better to have exercised restraint instead of writing. But in the case of "Veritas" it is very different. I have a high opinion of his writings on football and tennis, but I wish he would keep off the subject of cricket. In his comments on "Meo Periculo's" comments he has a long dissertation on Minu's bowling which perhaps only he understands. I have watched and read cricket in England by great players and writers but "Veritas" says is beyond me. He gives judgment on controversial points (on one he agrees with both sides) and when charged with being absent when the occurrences took place, he does not deny it but changes some of the statements he made in his first article into "suggestions".

Surely "Veritas" knows that opinions are always subject to be queried and that unless he saw every thing for himself he would not be in a position to answer such questions and in fact should not have, as "J.R." put it, interfered.

As for R. Abbit he is perhaps in a difficult position. It is a fact that the things mentioned by "Meo Periculo" took place and he could easily have put them in but he may have had his own reasons for not doing so. Lack of space cannot be one of them in view of the amount he devoted to the Club-Army match. A dignified silence such as he is maintaining would appear the wisest course.

However, let's let bygones be bygones and don't let's have any sports rows here approaching the seriousness of the rows at home.

SPECTATOR.

RESERVES PLAY WELL IN FINAL TRIAL

WEAK DEFENCE: MEDIOCRE WORK BY FORWARDS

By R.H.B.

The Hongkong Interport men's hockey team to play Macao next Sunday gave a very poor account of themselves at King's Park yesterday afternoon when they met with defeat at the hands of the Rest—a team composed mostly of substitutes—by three goals to one.

The Interport team never settled down. Willy Reed, Garthwaite and Gurbachan Singh worked hard, while Karter Singh and Lal Singh were on form.

The best player on the field was Alaf Din, the Interport half-back reserve apparently at centre-half for the rest in the absence of Newsom. Alaf Din played an inspired game, his goal from a short corner being spectacular.

G. E. R. Divett, another reserve played a good game on the right wing for the Rest, demonstrating that he is the type of forward essential to the Colony attack. His goal, scored in the first half, was a splendid effort.

UNIMPRESSIVE

Mackay, Colony right winger, was weak in the first half but improved considerably in the latter stages of the game. Though well supported by Garthwaite, he was too well marked by Edgar Reed to be very effective.

Sommer had all his work cut out in marking Divett and Charman Singh, the Punjabi's new inside-right and a player of great promise. Divett beat Sommer on the run, and centred with hard hits.

The Colony's backs, Metcalfe and Rodrigues, will have to improve. Neither was steady, and Rodrigues did not seem at home at left-back.

Aya Singh, the Brigade centre-forward, Alaf Din and Divett netted for the Rest while Garthwaite was responsible for the Interporters' solitary goal.

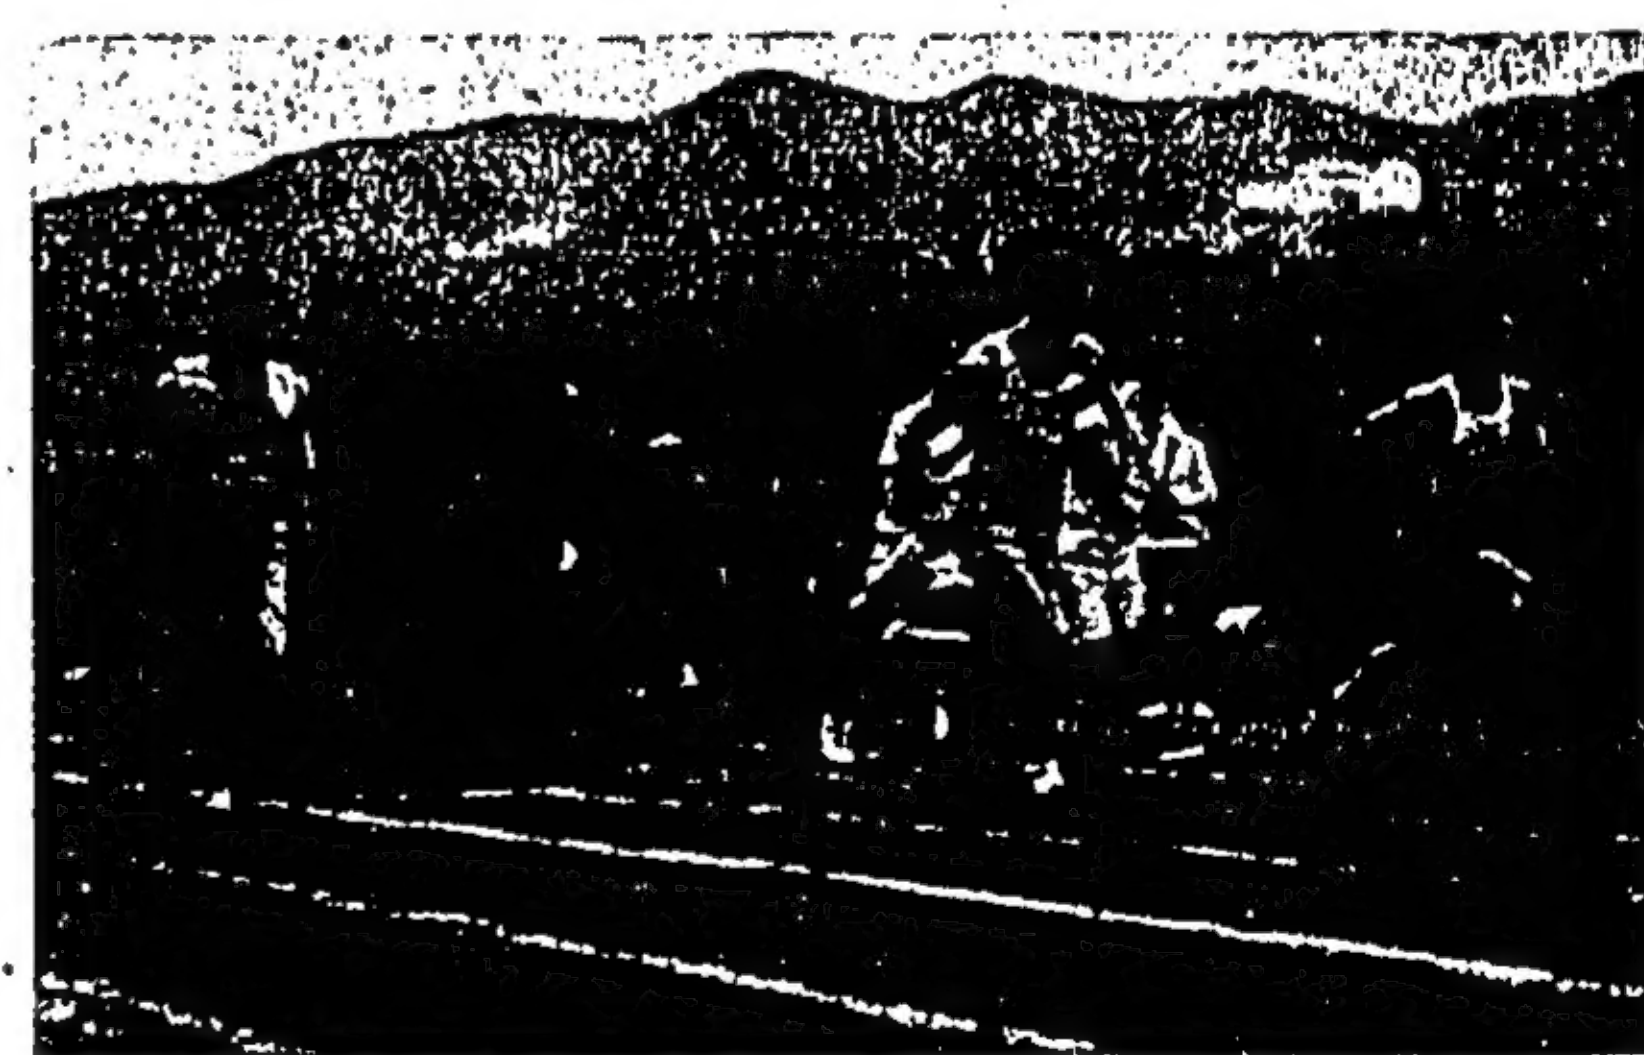

Among those present at the game were Mr. E. W. Hamilton, President of the Men's Hockey Association, Mr. A. A. Dand, Vice-President, Marquis de Ficalho, Portuguese Consul General, and Captain R. C. S. Bates.

C.B.A. v. CORNWALL

The Marik hockey match arranged between the Central British Association and H.M.S. Cornwall was not played yesterday, as the latter team failed to put in an appearance.

KOWLOON INDIANS v. CORNWALL

Playing on the Marina ground on Saturday afternoon the Kowloon Indians defeated H.M.S. Cornwall in a Mamak hockey match by two clear goals. In winning this match the Kowloon Indians retain their second

MAN'S DEATH PRESUMED

DISAPPEARED IN 1931

On the petition of Wong Wai-hung, leave was granted by the Chief Justice, Mr. Justice A. D. A. MacGregor, at the Supreme Court this morning, to presume the death of Wong Cum-cheung as from May 16, 1911, and to distribute the estate involved accordingly.

Mr. H. G. Sheldon, instructed by Mr. W. Keith Robinson, of Messrs. Te'o and Hodgson, represented the petitioner and said the application arose from the disappearance of a beneficiary of an estate and the consequent hold-up of the distribution of the estate by the trustee-executor, Wong Wai-hung.

Wong Cum-cheung had lived with the executor until May, 1911, when he ran away and all efforts to trace him had been unsuccessful during the ensuing 23 years.

His Lordship made an order empowering the trustee to presume the death.

SALE OF A GIRL

"GO-BETWEEN" SENT TO PRISON

A case of child selling came before Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones in the Central Police Court this morning when two married women, Tang Ping, 37, and Li Lin, 33, pleaded guilty to taking part in the sale of a girl, Ah Yung, aged ten years.

Inspector Andrew, of the Secretariat for Chinese Affairs, appeared for the prosecution, and stated that the child was sold through the two defendants. The child was kidnapped. The first defendant received $3.50 and the second defendant $2.40 as "go-between" fees. The natural mother received a letter from Fatsan and the child was restored.

Inspector Andrew added that if "go-betweens" did not exist there would be no buying and selling of children. They had reason to believe that there was a good deal of child selling going on.

Three months' hard labour was imposed on each defendant.

LOVE'S YOUNG DREAM

YOUNG WOMAN FINED FOR TRESPASSING

Remanded from Saturday on a charge of trespassing in the servants' quarters of St. Paul's Boys' College, a young married woman, Yuen Sau-chun, aged 18, was fined $15 by Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones in the Central Police Court this morning.

The defendant claimed that she went there to see her husband who was an employee at the College.

Enquiries made elicited the information that the girl had been previously married and divorced and the man she went to see at the College was not her husband but her sweetheart.

"We love each other," said the defendant from the dock.

The Magistrate: I am not concerned with that.

Mr. S. P. Wong, house master at the College, mentioned that strict orders had been given over and over again that no strangers be allowed on the premises.

WHOSE CAMERA?

POLICE SEARCHING FOR OWNER

The police are endeavouring to trace the owner of an Agfa folding camera, which was alleged to have been picked up on the tram lines in Saiwanho by an unemployed Chinese named Ng Kuen.

Three men, Lee Leung, watchman at the Lee Theatre, Ng Chiu, manager of the Kwong Wa electric blub shop, Vanchai, and Ng Kuen were charged before Mr. W. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy this morning, with unlawful possession of the camera.

The first defendant said the camera to sell to a friend, and the second defendant implicated the third defendant, who stated that he had picked it up in Saiwanho.

Detective Sergeant Fitches, prosecuting, asked for a remand to make enquiries.

Mr. Schofield remanded the case until to-morrow.

ALLEGED CAMERA THEFT

LANCS. PRIVATE CHARGED

Arthur Evan Clinton, aged 36, a private in "C" Company of the 2nd Battalion of the East Lancashire Regiment, stationed at the Shamshui camp, appeared before Mr. E. W. Hamilton at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning, and faced charges of stealing a camera at Lo Wu, Sheungshui, on December 20, 1934, and receiving.

When Sub-Inspector Cunningham, who is prosecuting, asked for one week's remand, the defendant requested to be kept in civil rather than military detention.

The Magistrate remanded the case until Friday.

On being asked whether he would make any plea, Clinton said, "I would sooner plead guilty and have the case finished with," but the Magistrate stated that the defendant was an innocent man until he was proved guilty, and for that reason he would prefer that defendant be kept in military custody as he did not like the idea of sending him to gaol. However, as the defendant wished it he would accede to his request.

LATEST MOTOR COLLISIONS

INVOLVED

Mr. D. B. Evans, of the Hongkong Observatory, was involved in a motor collision on the Tai Po Road last night, when his car collided with another private car, resulting in some damage being caused to the bumpers and rear wheels of both vehicles.

When a lorry suddenly stopped at the junction of Garden Road last night, Surge Lt. Moorthy of H.M.S. Defender, who was following it in his car, was unable to pull up in time, with the result that a slight collision occurred, with very little damage caused to the car.

An Indian constable, Hari Singh, was commended by Mr. W. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy this morning, for his smart work in arresting a man named Wong Lam, who was charged with the theft of two pairs of gold cuff links and a silver powder box, to the total value of $70, from No. 15 Bowen Road, between January 4 and January 19.
The defendant was also charged with receiving.

The complainant, Mr. A. A. Andrews, Ticket Inspector on the Peak Tramway, identified the powder box, by the monogram on it, as the property of his wife. He also stated that he had lost two pairs of gold cuff links and a gold stud.
He had seen the defendant previous to his arrest in Bowen Road.

The constable said that on January 19 at about 1 p.m. he saw the defendant come out of Tai Wong Street and go into Queen's Road. He noticed defendant touch his girdle, and, suspecting the man, he searched him and found the powder box. The defendant said a friend had given it to him, but could not say where the friend could be found.

On the way to the station the defendant offered him $1.

Defendant said he had bought the box and some brass hooks from a man for twelve cents in Cross Street.

Mr. Schofield dismissed the charge of theft, and fined defendant $20, or, in default, one month's hard labour, on the receiving charge.

Cmdr. A. R. Thatcher (H.M.S.
Kent) and A/Wt. Supt. W. E.
Hekker (H.M.S. Adventure).
